OREGON FIRE
RAZES 10 CITY
BLOCKS; 2 DIEDynamite Buildings In Astoria
To Check Flames—Loss
$4,000,000

Astoria, Ore. — Ten blocks of the business district of this city were wiped out, two lives were lost and property damage estimated at $4,000,000 has been caused by a fire which broke out shortly after 3 o'clock Friday morning. Most of the big business houses had been burned and firemen aided by forces from the Portland fire department had dynamited buildings in an effort to check the flames.

Astoria had a population of 14,020 at the 1920 census. Its seagoing commerce principally is in lumber. The business section of Astoria is built along the river bank and a large part of it is on piling. The residence district is on high ground. Astoria was established more than a century ago as a trading post and was named in honor of John Jacob Astor, pioneer trader whose agents were active at the post.

STATEMENT HINTS
AT PACKERS' WARMorris Denies Statement By Armour That They Are Anxious To Sell

By Associated Press
Chicago.—An unexpected turn in the discussed merger of the two large packing firms, Morris & Company and Armour Company became known Friday when a signed statement issued by the former firm was made public. It was over the signatures of Nelson Morris, chairman of the board of directors and Edward Morris, president of the company.

The statement indicated that J. Ogden Armour, of Armour & Company, in visits to Washington and conference with officials of the government on the proposed merger has not taken officials of Morris & Company into his confidence. At least part of Morris & Company officials, knowledge of his actions, as indicated by the statement was obtained from newspaper reports. The Morris & Company statement read:

"We note by Thursday morning papers that Mr. Armour has advised President Harding that we are anxious to be out of the packing business. This is news to us.

"While we realized that Mr. Armour is very anxious to acquire our business and our organization, up to the present time we have not put any price on same and he has not made us an offer.

"Even if Mr. Armour should purchase our business it would not mean that we would long remain out of the packing business."

It was said in some quarters, following the issuance of the statement, that it indicated, although the Morris & Company holdings might be acquired by Armour & Company, the former firm would not forsake the packing business for any length of time. This, the observers, pointed out, might culminate in a packers' war.

By Associated Press
Madison.—After a complete survey of the legislature, dry leaders in the 1923 Wisconsin legislature, which is adjourned on Friday, concluded that out of a series of moves to bring about an expression of Wilson's attitude on prohibition at the coming session, would come the enactment of a measure calling for a referendum on some form of the wet and dry question.

There is general agreement that the liquor issue is to figure prominently in the 1923 Wisconsin legislature, which is adjourned on Friday, and has 17 out of its 33 senators either avowedly wet or indorsed by the Wisconsin Division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, as "satisfactory." The close division in the upper house leads the drys to assert that a compromise referendum bill will be the result of efforts to repeal the Severson enforcement statute.

MAY GET ENFORCEMENT BILL.
With direct intervention of the administration to head off the referendum move, its success is said by the drys to be assured. They express the belief that the referendum measure will take the form of an enforcement bill to replace the Severson law, its enactment to be dependent upon ratification by the people either at the next April Nonpartisan election or at the next general election.

According to expressions from those who have investigated the situation, many of the drys who would oppose a memorial to congress calling for wine and beer, would support a referendum measure because of their adherence to the belief that the people should be allowed to express themselves on any subject.

Some of the Milwaukee legislators were elected to office pledged to work for modification of the liquor laws, a fact which is said to practically assure the introduction of the issue in to the session. Once brought before a Wisconsin legislature this question assumes immediate importance.

U.S. MEANS TO PROTECT SEAS
AT ALL COSTSShips, Guns If Necessary To Keep Straits Free To All, Is Plan

By Associated Press
Washington.—American foreign policy under the Harding administration has developed its first concrete participation in European affairs in nearly two years. And it is an interesting coincidence that the announcement should be made on the very day that former Premier Clemenceau of France and former President Wilson should be indulging in reminiscences over the famous fourteen points on which Germany accepted an armistice in the great war.

For the instructions sent Ambassador Richard Washburn Child by President Harding and Secretary Hughes to be read at the gathering of the powers at Lausanne to patch up the Near Eastern war are in conformity with the twelfth of the Wilson fourteen points which read as follows:

"The Dardanelles should be permanently opened as a free passage to the ships and commerce of all nations under international guarantees."

PROHIBITS U. S. AID
Ambassador Child not only upheld this policy but specifically promised American aid in guaranteeing the freedom of the straits. He said that "no nation would be readier (than the United States) to uphold the good sense of maintaining a sufficient naval force to act as the police of the free seas, to protect its citizens and their ships wherever they might be, to suppress piracy and other menaces and to act at times for the public good and give relief to the suffering just as the ships of war have recently done in the Near East."

This is the first time since the Wilson administration that any promises of naval help have been made to European powers in the solution of problems overseas. The rejection of an American mandate in Armenia, the gradual withdrawal of American troops from the Rhine and a general policy of keeping out of European affairs have come to be regarded in some quarters as a fixed determination to remain entirely out of the politics of Europe. The readiness of the Harding administration to use its influence in the Near Eastern crisis will naturally be viewed as inconsistent by the Wilsonian Democrats and those Republicans who favored international cooperation are plainly enthusiastic over the turn of the Harding policy.

CHURCHES HAVE INFLUENCE
Unquestionably the pressure of American churches which have not interests in the Near East have a telling effect here. Also it is an open secret that Great Britain has been anxious for American support in the Near East and has succeeded in persuading the American government that a positive stand by the United States at this time would contribute materially toward the making of peace.

The demand of the United States that the Dardanelles be kept free of fortification goes further than anything which has been said on the subject by the American government under its preceding administration. It has been suggested by some critics that the United States is to some extent inconsistent in arguing against fortifications in the Dardanelles when the Panama canal is so heavily fortified by its owner, the United States government. The answer made in official quarters here is that the Panama canal is an artificial waterway whose usefulness could easily be destroyed for neutral commerce by the acts of a belligerent while the Dardanelles is a natural waterway and could not be blocked by a single explosion or even by the sinking of a great number of ships.

FREEDOM OF SEAS, AIM
So far as consistency is concerned, the pronouncement by Ambassador Child is directly in line with precedents in American policy for generations. The United States always has stood for freedom of navigation. The significance of Mr. Child's statement really is that precedents are being followed instead of ignored on this subject and that Harding administration has grown bold enough to speak out in the open about a European question. Heretofore the so-called "irreconcilable" group who have managed to hold up the appointment of an American member to the reparations commission and the official attendance of American representatives at European conferences constituted a political obstacle to the free expression of American views on many vital questions growing out of the Paris peace conference. Generalities alone have been voiced with respect to American cooperation.

ERIN WARNS
REBELS; HANG
FOUR LEADERSExecution Is Reprisal To Shooting Of Deputy Hales
Thursday

By Associated Press
Dublin.—Roderick "Rory" O'Connor and Liam Mellowes, together with two other Irish rebels, were executed in Mount Joy prison Friday morning, it was officially announced. The two other men executed were named Joseph McKeivney and Richard Barrett, both prominent Republicans.

O'Connor and Mellowes were leaders of the band of Irish insurgents that formed the four courts building in Dublin in its stand against the Free State troops last June. Each was taken prisoner when the building was captured after a three day siege.

An official army report states that the four men were executed as a reprisal for the assassination of Sean Hales, the deputy shot Thursday and as a solemn warning to those associated with them "in the conspiracy of assassination against the representatives of the Irish people."

The prisoners were tried by a military court martial during the night found guilty and sentenced to death. The death sentence was carried out at 9:20 o'clock this morning. Three priests were present. The prisoners, blindfolded, were marched to the place of execution. O'Connor had to be assisted to the scaffold.

CHARGE PRISONERS
TREATED CRUELLYProbers Into Milwaukee House
Of Correction Methods
Fling Accusations

Milwaukee.—Charging "cruel, inhuman and barbarous punishment" of house of correction prisoners, Atorney Arthur H. Bartlett on Thursday hurled intimations that the death of William McKinley Kennedy, a Negro and former prisoner, had been caused by torturous punishment inflicted upon him for a breach of the prison rules and regulations.

Many of the charges of extreme cruelty made by Attorney Bartlett, representing Paul Tetzek, discharged house of correction chauffeur, were contained in questions put to Deputy Inspector Edward Maederer, who, on Thursday, took the stand in the hearing before the county civil service commission in his own defense.

STAND BETWEEN DOORS
The climax in the examination of Mr. Maederer came when Mr. Bartlett asked:

"Do you ever punish prisoners by putting them between two doors with their arms over their heads?"

"Not with their arms over their heads," Maederer replied. "We have punished prisoners by making them stand between an iron and a wooden door."

DENY EXTREME PUNISHMENT
"How long did you keep them there?" Mr. Bartlett asked.

"Two or three hours," Maederer answered.

"You never kept them there in that position for two or three days, did you?" Mr. Bartlett continued.

"No sir," Maederer emphatically replied.

Mr. Bartlett continued his questioning along this same line for some time, asking whether officials at the institution had ever shackled a prisoner and then "strung" the prisoner up in such manner as to allow only the tips of his toes to touch the floor. This question brought another emphatic "No" from Maederer.

President Suggests
Cure For Many Ills

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH

Washington.—The president began his address by calling attention of congress to general world conditions, which, he said, still were seriously disturbed as a result of the war. He asserted that "the inevitable readjustment of the social and economic order is not more than barely begun," and continued:

"There never again will be precisely the old order. Indeed, I know of no one who thinks it to be desirable. For out of the old order came the war itself and the new order, established and made secure, never will permit its recurrence."

"It is no figure of speech to say we have come to the test of our civilization. The world has been passing—is passing today—through a great crisis. The conduct of war itself is not more difficult than the solution of the problems which necessarily follow. I am not speaking at this moment of the problem in its wider aspects of world rehabilitation or of international relationships. The reference is to our own social, financial and economic problems at home. These things are not to be considered solely as problems apart from all international relationship but every nation must be able to carry on for itself, else its international relationship will have scant importance."

CRITICIZES STRIKES
"Doubtless our own people have emerged from the World War tumult less impaired than most belligerent powers; probably we have made larger progress toward reconstruction. Had we escaped the coal and railway strikes which had no excuse for their beginning and less justification, in their delayed settlement, we might have done indefinitely better. But labor was insistent on holding to the war heights and heedless forces of reaction sought pre-war levels and both were wrong."

"The railway strike accentuated the difficulty of the American farmer. The first distress of readjustment came to the farmer and it will not be a readjustment fit to abide until he is relieved. The distress brought to the farmer does not affect him alone. Agricultural ill fortune is a national ill fortune."

"This congress already has taken organization of the misfortune which precipitated deflation brought to American agriculture. Your measures or relief and the reduction of the federal reserve discount rate undoubtedly saved the country from widespread disaster. The very proof of the helplessness of the farmer for the permanent establishment of widened credits, heretofore temporarily extended through the war finance corporation."

URGES AID TO FARMERS
"The farm loan bureau which already has proven its usefulness through the federal land banks may well have its powers enlarged to provide ample farm production credits as well as enlarged land credits. It is entirely practical to create a division in the federal land banks to deal with production credits, with the limitation of time so adjusted to the farm system provides for the turnover in the manufacturing and mercantile world. Special provision must be made for live stock production credits and the limit of land loans may be safely enlarged. Various measures are pending before you and the best judgement of congress ought to be expressed in a prompt enactment at the present session."

BUT AMERICAN AGRICULTURE NEEDS MORE THAN ADDED CREDIT FACILITIES.
The credits will help to solve the pressing problems growing out of war inflated land values and the drastic deflation of three years ago, but permanent and deserved agricultural good fortune depends on better and cheaper transportation. Here is an outstanding problem demanding the most rigorous consideration of the congress and the country."

BLAMES BROKEN ROADS
"In the last half of the year now closing the railways, broken in carrying capacity because of motive power and rolling stock out of order, though insistently declaring to the contrary, embargoed his shipments, or denied him cars when fortunate markets were calling. Too frequently transportation failed while perishable products were turning from possible profit to losses counted in tens of millions."

"I know of no problem exceeding in importance this one of transportation. We have built 40 per cent of the world's railroad mileage and yet find it inadequate to our present requirements. When we contemplate the adequacy of today, it is easy to believe that the next few decades will witness the paralysis of our transportation using social scheme or a complete reorganization on some new basis."

"Manifestly, we have need to begin on plans to coordinate all transportation facilities. We should more effectively connect up our rail lines with our carriers by sea. We ought to

DELIVERS SPEECH BEFORE CONGRESS—ABOLITION OF RAIL BOARD URGED

DISCUSSES FARM RELIEF

BLAMES DELAY OF SLOW RECONSTRUCTION TO RECENT STRIKES

Washington. — President Harding in his annual message delivered Friday to congress in person, deals with nearly a score of subjects, chief among them prohibition, farm credits, transportation, child labor and immigration.

The executive announces his purpose to invite the governors of the states and territories to an early conference with the federal executive authority with a view to adopting definite policies of national and state cooperation in administering the prohibition laws. He says the day is unlikely to come when the prohibition amendment will be repealed and the nation should adapt its course accordingly.

President Harding tells congress that if the statutory provisions for prohibition enforcement are contrary to deliberate public opinion, which he does not believe, the rigorous and literal enforcement will concentrate public opinion on any requisite legislation.

TAKES UP TRANSPORTATION
With regard to the transportation problem, Mr. Harding proposes that the Railroad Labor board be abolished with the substitution of a labor division in the Interstate Commerce commission with ample power to require its rulings to be accepted by both parties to a disputed question. The executive also proposes that the low require the carriers and their employees to institute means and methods to negotiate between themselves their constantly arising differences, limiting appeals to the government body to disputes of such character as are likely to affect the public welfare. Coordination of all transportation facilities is urged by the president. These would include not only inland waterways but motor truck transportation as well. He weighs against the system of paralleling the railroads with truck roads this drawing freight from the steam trucks instead of making the motor truck a feeder for them.

As to the carriers themselves, Mr. Harding suggests as ways of increased economy and efficiency there be a merger of lines into systems interchange of freight cars, the consolidation of facilities and the economic use of terminals.

More extended credit for the farmers is strongly urged by the executive who declares that the very proof of helplessness already given is the strongest argument for the permanent establishment of widened credits. He says the farm loan bureau may well have its powers enlarged to provide ample farm production credits as well as enlarged land credits.

Fond du Lac.—George Kohls, 38 and his wife, Bertha, 35, were electrocuted in their homes Thursday night.

Mrs. Kohls took an incandescent light in her hand which was attached to an extension cord. She stepped into a cot. As she stepped on the register in the floor she screamed from an electric shock and died within ten minutes.

Her husband telephoned for the undertaker. W. N. Candlish who is county coroner responded and wishing to know how the accident happened, asked the husband to show him. Mr. Kohls took the wire which his wife had handled and stepped into the attic going through the actions of his wife. As he stepped on the register he fell over dead. Examination of the wire showed that the insulation had worn off and that in stepping on the register the husband and wife had effected a circuit which snapped out their lives. They leave a boy, Orville, 8, and a girl, Verna, 12.

Then they put the record on the machine using the new hole. The record started to shimmy when the machine was turned on and a wavy motion of jazz notes followed, and what a bragg of jazz notes. The students doubled up in laughter, and then one of the boys brought in another phonograph, they doctored up another record in the same way, and played both machines at once. I wondered what the neighbors said. You can't get an idea of the melody of sounds unless you try this out yourself. Use the point of a sharp knife and bore thru on both sides. Ray Cox and James Mortell of Buchanan, who have been out on bail since their arraignment at Green Bay on charges of operating a still at the Cox farm just over Brown-co line, were on Thursday bound over to a higher court. The amount of their bonds was set at $500.

The place was raided following the death of Ray O'Connell, Brickyard rd. who was fatally injured in an automobile accident on Sept. 17. The car was driven by John Storm, Jr., R. J. Neenah. Liquor is said to have been obtained by one of the men from the place mentioned.

The raid resulted in the discovery of 500 gallons of mash, a large quantity of moonshine whisky and a 50-gallon still, one of the largest prohibition agents have seized in the state. The apparatus was cleverly concealed in the woods near a road.

ONLY ONE-THIRD OF COAL NEEDS SHIPPED BY BOAT

Freezeup Forces Tugs To Give Up After Longest Season Known

The United States engineers office at Milwaukee Friday morning announced that navigation on the Fox and Wolf rivers and on Lake Winnebago would close Saturday evening, Dec. 9.

Navigation on Fox river has ceased, due to the sudden cold wave which turned autumn into winter and froze up everything. According to Ben J. Prugh Fox River Navigation Co., the company's barges and tugs will make no more trips this year for coal although the government has not officially closed the navigation season. Reports, however, indicate a coal and company officials expect the government to close navigation by Saturday.

A few tugs and barges were almost frozen in at points along the river on Monday evening when the sudden change in weather came. All are free, however, and will be tied up for the winter at their home docks. The tug Jane, owned by the navigation company, made her last trip from down river Wednesday.

Mr. Prugh said the average navigation season ends about Nov. 22. This year, due to the weather at Little Rapids, which held up river traffic for more than four months, the season was extended until December, the latest in the history of the Fox river. The big storm early in the summer carried away the locks at Little Rapids and navigation was held up from June 10 until Oct. 21, when repairs were completed.

The short season greatly reduced the coal tonnage hauled up the river. Fox River Navigation Co. has two tugs and five barges which haul an average of 150,000 tons of coal a season. This year only about 50,000 tons was distributed at various plants between Appleton and Green Bay.

Each barge carries approximately 420 tons of coal on a trip. This year a necessary reduction to about 370 tons to a load helped to decrease the amount of coal carried. The water in Lake Michigan was six inches lower this year than it has been in the last ten years, making a corresponding drop in the level of the river. The result was that barges were caught away from the flat rocks in shallow water near DePere. Sometimes from three to thirty-six hours was wasted because it was necessary to wait for the water to raise before proceeding with the load.

Mr. Prugh has written to the various chambers of commerce in cities along the river, telling of the condition and asking that the cities cooperate in obtaining a government appropriation to remove the rocks and make navigation safe. Other trouble was experienced this year because of the low water. Only a few weeks ago a barge was sunk in the river when a hole was punched into its bottom by the rocks.

PARIS WOMEN REFUSE TO BUY EXPENSIVE DRESSES

By Associated Press
Paris—Disheartened and saddened by the evident determination of the women of Paris to adorn themselves simply, in the matter of dress, those who are interested in the selling of furs, feathers and embroidery have come together to ask the women for mercy.

M. Dior, minister of commerce, dwells upon the stagnant condition of the industries which provide feminine finery, and tells the fashion artists they must do something about it. The answer given him is that the dressmakers are powerless.

"This simplicity which troubles M. Dior, 'one leading gown designer said recently, 'saddens us as much as it does him.' Our models are simple because they are inexpensive, and please our clients. The eight hour day, taxes, high wages and customs decrees involving onerous reciprocity like the American tariff bill which came into force lately, all make a cheap and plain dress necessary."

The newest models shown are without lace and brocades, and of plain and cheap materials.

GANFIELD TO PREACH IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, who will be the speaker at the People's Forum in Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday evening, will preach a sermon in Memorial Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. His subject will be: "Is the world doomed to starve?"

Dr. Ganfield was elected moderator of the Wisconsin state synod of the Presbyterian church at the last conference.

SHIOCTON IS PREPARING FOR FARMERS INSTITUTE

A farmers' institute will be held at Shiocton Dec. 14 and 15. It is the only one that will be held in Outagamie county this year. Similar institutes will be held on the same date at Cleghorn, Eau Claire, Co. Runyan, Polk, Co. and Marathon City, Marathon, Co. Twenty-two institutes in all will be held in the state during the month of December.

WERNER IN WAUSAU COURT

FOREIGN LANDS WELCOME Y. M. C. A.

American Secretaries Lead Way
And Natives Soon Take Charge

Harry W. White, international secretary of foreign work of the Y. M. C. A., who has seen long service in India, Egypt and the Near East, visited Appleton Wednesday in the interest of foreign work of the Y. M. C. A. He said these foreign countries, including Mexico and South America, are calling for American Y. M. C. A. secretaries faster than they can be supplied.

A prominent Mexican said to Mr. White that what Mexico needs more than anything else, and welcomes more than anything else, is the Y. M. C. A. because of its spirit and friendship and because it develops its young men in so many different ways physically and morally.

One of the successes of the Y. M. C. A. in foreign fields is that it trains local leaders so that the work ultimately is put in charge of the native leaders. American secretaries merely act as advisors and demonstrators, he said.

U. S. LEADS WAY

In the national movement and in the large cities of India, China, Japan and South America, native trained secretaries are taking the lead with the American secretaries acting as advisors. The American Y. M. C. A. merely pays the salary of the American secretary to organize and demonstrate the work, and helps them to get modern buildings. The site and a part of the building expenses are usually borne by the people in the field where this work is demonstrated, he declared.

Mr. White said also that all the local furnishing expenses of the Y. M. C. A. in these foreign fields, including the expenses of the native secretaries and help, are paid by those communities themselves. America only pays the salary of the American secretary to demonstrate.

Appleton is now raising its share of the fund to help support the foreign work. Last year the city raised $500, but because of the great need and extension of the work and the increased cost of maintenance, American secretaries are asking for a greater sum this year.

NO POTATOES SHIPPED FROM CITY LAST MONTH

IMPLEMENT DEALER SAYS FARMERS ARE DOING WELL

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—The implement industry in Wisconsin is on the verge of prosperity, according to J. W. Christensen, Berlin, Wis., president of the Wisconsin Implement Dealers Association in session here. "Farmers in Wisconsin are more prosperous than in any other state," said Mr. Christensen. "Although the price of potatoes and of some other produce is low, yet they have the dairy industry and poultry product to fall back on."

42 COUNTIES IN FAVOR OF TAX ON AUTOS FOR ROADS

Scale Of Levies According To Size And Value Of Machine Urged

The county boards of 42 Wisconsin counties have approved the "first plan" of levying $10,000,000 in direct taxes on the users of state highways to carry out the 1924 road-building program, the highway commission has announced today.

Votes of the county boards on the proposals showed:

The two-cent a gallon gasoline sales tax was favored by 35 and opposed by 7.

A graduated license for on motor vehicles was favored, 34 to 8.

A two per cent valuation tax on automobiles was favored 34 to 8.

The three taxes are all included in the plan for raising the money for the road program.

The boards were divided, 32 to 10, in favor of adding 2,500 miles to the state highway trunk system, making a total of 10,000 miles.

Only 3 of the 42 boards opposed raising about $5,500,000 in the next three years to secure a similar amount of federal aid available to the state.

Four of the 42 boards opposed the state's taking over the entire payment of money to meet federal aid. The county now pays one-third of the money to meet federal aid provisions.

This would relieve the counties of about $2,000,000 in taxation, which would be carried by the state. On this basis a proposition suggesting that the federal aid be administered not on a county basis, but to meet the most urgent requirements, was approved by the boards, 32 to 10.

One proposal, that the state highway authorities were to have some voice in selection of the county highway commission, apparently was turned down, 29 boards voting against and 13 for it.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache often means you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

ILLITERACY IN THE UNITED STATES

Illiteracy is slowly disappearing in the United States. The census of 1910 indicated there were 5,516,163 illiterates in the United States above 10 years of age; the figures for 1920 show a total of 4,931,905 illiterates in the United States above 10 years of age. The following table shows how the illiteracy is divided:

	1910	1920
Per cent of total population illiterate above 10 years of age	7.7	6.0
Per cent of native whites of native parentage	3.7	2.5
Per cent of native whites of foreign or mixed parentage	1.1	0.8
Per cent of foreign-born whites	12.7	13.1
Per cent of Negroes	30.4	22.9

The above census figures are based upon inquiry merely. Persons who can write their names or a few words often consider themselves literate. Many authorities have long thought that a test of ability to use the language in a practical way would reveal a much larger number of illiterates in this country. The late Secretary Lane estimated that perhaps 20 per cent of the citizenship were illiterate. A practical test administered to a million and a half soldiers in the war revealed, to the amazement of many, that 25 per cent of them could make no practical use of written English. All thoughtful persons seem agreed that this appalling situation is a menace to the nation's highest interests.

The total urban population is now slightly in excess of the rural, but the number of illiterates in rural exceeds those in urban communities by one million.

Compulsory school attendance laws, well enforced in urban districts, evidently have had a beneficial influence in reducing the number of illiterates ten to fifteen years of age to 0.5 per cent. In rural districts the percentage is 3.8, at most eight times the number found in urban districts. There are four illiterates aged 16 to 20 in our rural districts to one in our urban districts; and of voting age, 21 years and over, the number of illiterates in rural districts is twice the number in city or urban districts. Of those whose parents are "native" there are more than four illiterates in rural communities to one in urban communities.

Now is the time to fight illiteracy by every available means. The fight can be waged in two directions. First, by a more rigid enforcement of our compulsory school attendance laws. Less than three-fourths of our children of school age are actually attending school. The laws should be made more stringent in some instances, and all laws now on the statute books should have rigid enforcement. This will cut off the crop of illiterates as they grow up. The second direction of effort in all communities should be toward the eradication of adult illiterates, who have passed beyond school age. Many organizations are cooperating in this work. Chambers of commerce, women's and men's clubs, industrial concerns, and various civic organizations can be united in each community to find their adult illiterates and interest them in attending night schools and availing themselves of all possible agencies for learning. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart eradicated illiteracy in one of the most remote counties of the mountains of Kentucky by getting the adults to go to night schools. This has since been done in many places. Materials are now available whereby adults can teach themselves. The time is ripe for all patriotic citizens to stimulate adult illiterates in every possible way to learn to read and write.

MUNICIPAL STREET RAILWAYS

The appointment of Mayor Couzens of Detroit to the United States senate has called attention to the most notable achievement of his administration—the creation of the largest municipal street car system in America. Incidentally it has aroused new interest in municipal operation of public utilities, at a time when such operation is somewhat under a cloud. In Detroit the city ownership idea so far seems to be succeeding. Fear is expressed, however, that Mayor Couzens' departure may endanger its success, especially while the enterprise is still in the formative stage.

There is one weak spot in municipal ownership of such a utility. Theoretically there is no convincing reason why it should not succeed, but practically its success depends too much on the chance of getting the right man to run it, and keeping him there. And politics is always a great menacing hazard. A Couzens in Detroit or a Tom Johnson in Cleveland may make a public enterprise pay. But there are not many Couzenses or Tom Johnsons willing to give their unusual business ability to the service of the community. Weaker men fail with the same tasks, as they would in private enterprise, but in private enterprises weak men are seldom chosen.

Public ownership of highly technical utilities is not likely to work in this country until we reach higher civic standards all around, and then only in the larger cities.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

That some cities are great retail, jobbing and manufacturing centers.

That some of them could become greater if the business men made an organized effort to make them so.

That in many of them, heads of concerns sit peacefully at their desks waiting for business.

That in these competitive times you have to go after it, if you don't some other fellow will get it.

That some cities get a certain amount of business because they can't help it.

That some of them are so located that a certain amount of business just naturally floats in.

That when other cities get into another city's trade territory and get the business, it is because one city is asleep and the other city is awake and on the job.

That it takes more business to make business grow. It takes more business to make this city grow. Keep Appleton growing.

MR. HARDING ON FEDERAL-AID LAWS

It is as President Harding says, that certain federal-aid laws, granting conditional appropriations, have been incentives to states for public work and measures. The most impressive illustration is the federal aid for highway construction.

On the other hand, it is equally true, as he forcibly adds, that federal aid has been considerably overplayed. Appropriations of this kind have increased both state and federal taxation, and, what is worse, many of the undertakings which have been encouraged with federal money have not been worth while.

Moreover, the federal aid plan has been tending to become a custom and to institute paternalism. Nothing could be more injurious nationally than for us, as a people, to rely on Washington for help, instead of resorting to our own effort. It is hoped that the president's criticism will call attention to this pernicious tendency and will have the effect of stopping wholesale federal aid.

IRVIN COBB DESERVED BETTER

President Harding's action in bestowing a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps upon Irvin Cobb must have come as a severe blow to this well known author and humorist. No one likes to be demoted. After the war more or less demotion in the regular army was necessary in order to get back to normal. But it is difficult to see why it should have been deemed necessary in the case of so delightful a personage as Irvin Cobb. The president should have borne this in mind and it should have been General Cobb or nothing.

Irvin Cobb comes from Kentucky. As everyone knows, no man ever left Kentucky and attained fame in other fields who failed to win the distinction of being elevated to the rank of colonel. Kentucky colonels are a part of the poetry and history of our great background, famed in song and story alike. Forgetting all this, the president comes along and makes Cobb a simple major. A pretty hard blow for one who, in addition to having been a Kentucky colonel, is a chevalier of the French Legion of Honor and a doctor of laws (Dartmouth). Our sympathy goes out to Doctor Chevalier Major Irvin Shrewsbury Cobb. The president "hadn't order done it."

BUGS IN GRANDPA'S CHEST

Somebody who dislikes slang criticized the practice of calling germs or bacteria "bugs," because, for one reason, germs are plants rather than animals. I've heard that point raised before. Germs may be more vegetable than animal in nature, but take the typhoid germ, for instance, and watch it in a hanging drop of water or other fluid squirming about with its innumerable arms, legs or flappers and you'll decide the vegetable kingdom is a livelier kingdom than you had ever been led to suspect.

Anyhow grandpa had bugs in his chest. The bugs were the essential, primary and indispensable cause of his chronic bronchitis. There were other contributing or predisposing factors, which he have already dealt with in his case. Now he seemed to have nothing left to interest his doctor but the bugs. Nature having been propitiated by grandpa's hygienic reform was now an ally, and it seemed only fair to offer nature a helping hand to finish the job.

"Well, have another bacteriological examination of the sputum," said the doctor. "Save some in this jar today and we'll send it to the laboratory."

As this entailed no sacrifice of constitutional rights and no alteration of his present program, the patient acquiesced, and a day or two later the bacteriological report came back, according to which it appeared that grandpa was harboring in his bronchial tubes a lusty colony of that ubiquitous enemy of civilization, the pneumococcus, alias the pneumonia germ, alias the bronchitis germ, alias the quinsy germ, alias the coryza germ, and several other aliases. And along with this versatile villain, the report disclosed a very common pus producing microbe, named staphylococcus pyogenes aureus, capable of any dirty work from pimples and boils to sore throat and septicaemia.

"Not so bad, just two kinds of bugs in the old chest," cheered the doctor.

"If they're as bad as they sound I'd better arrange for a long ride," gloomed grandpa. "But see here, doctor, if there were really any bugs in my chest, honest injun and all this laboratory business aside, you could give me some antiseptic medicine to kill them, couldn't you?"

"Certainly I could—but it wouldn't," said the doctor. "No such medicine has ever been found, that is, nothing that will kill germs in the body without damaging the body or killing the man. But we can help your old friend nature dispose of those bugs."

Accordingly the bacteriologist prepared an autogenous bacterin or vaccine from the killed bodies of the germs which he had found present. This might be called a "hair of the dog that bites you." It came ready for use, each dose in a little hermetically sealed ampule, and when the doctor injected grandpa that one of the ampules contained several hundred million killed microbes grandpa held the nearly clear fluid up to the light and said they were dead, all right, for nothing but their spirits remained. The doctor gave the first hypodermic at once. Grandpa said it had all the effect of so much water. Five days later the doctor injected the second dose. This produced slight local irritation but no other effect than that of slight, local, gradually increasing quantities, but produced no lasting effect. He did begin to experience distinctly less coughing and diminished expectoration, however. Wait a bit for the result.

The Sulphur Myth

I am seventeen—pimples—tried various things without relief—troublesome of sulphur every day—do you believe in clay treatments?—Miss L. B. M. Answer—Sulphur taken internally is a physic but has no effects on the skin. Applied to the skin sulphur is a parasiticide (kills parasites) in such affections as scabies (the itch), and a stimulant or irritant in such affections as acne (oily skin, blackheads and pimples). You should not expect much from plastering mud on the face. Gently express the blackheads by pressure of the fingers, covered with clean cloth, each alternate day, following a prolonged bathing of the face with hot water containing about a tablespoonful of borax acid to the basin. Then apply with the fingers, let dry on the face and dabbing with the fingers, let dry on the face and wash off with cold water next morning.

Accent on the Eyes

What is acute coryza? How do you pronounce the word? Is it curable? Is it like hay fever?—Mrs. C. A. L.

Answer—An acute infectious inflammation of the lining of the nose and upper part of the throat. Pronounced with the accent on the first syllable. Usually the victim recovers, though complications may be serious or fatal. It resembles hay fever. It is mistakenly called "cold."

Worth Nation's Time And Money To Educate All Of Its People

(This is the fifth of a series of articles pertaining to education which have been prepared for the American Legion for publication during National Education week.)

BY DR. SAMUEL PLANTZ

There are two views which have had a large place in the history of education concerning the duty of the states to provide equal educational opportunity for every boy and girl. The first may be called the aristocratic theory which holds that men belong to different social classes, some being designed by nature to rule and others to serve; and that those who are of the first class have an inherent right to special educational privileges, while those who are of the second class and destined to be "hewers of wood and drawers of water" should receive at least only a very elementary training. The conception has dominated the educational policy of most aristocracies, held to the view in a modified form. His view was that there were in all classes persons endowed with special intellectual gifts, men of genius, who should be sought out and educated to be rulers and leaders, while people of ordinary capacity, designed by nature to serve, should be taught submission to the judgment and will of their superiors. Nor is this conception entirely wanting even in democratic America. There are a good many people who ascribe our social disturbances to the education being given our working classes, and who say that interests of society and of the nation will be best subserved by limiting education largely to those who belong to the upper social classes, except in the case of persons who evince exceptional intellectual ability. Thus Prof. Henry Thurston Peck tells us that the most serious of our educational mistakes is the "curious fancy that education in itself and for all human beings is a good and thoroughly desirable possession. . . . There is probably in our whole system to-day no principle so fundamentally untrue as this, and there is certainly none that is fraught with so much social and political peril for the future. . . . For education means ambition and ambition means discontent." If he then goes on to argue that the progress of civilization has always been promoted by "a small, highly trained patriciate, a cast, an aristocracy, if you will" whose intellectual force has "enabled them to dominate and control the destinies of states, driving in harness the hewers of wood and drawers of water, who constitute the vast majority of the human race, and whose happiness is greater and whose welfare is more thoroughly conserved when governed than when governing." The south in its idea of training in such lines as will make him a better servant of the white race, and that cultural education follows in the line of the aristocratic theory of education.

The second theory is the natural outcome of a democratic form of government, the fundamental principle of which is that every citizen has "equality of right before the law." While diversity of talent cannot be questioned, and while it is true that the progress of civilization has come, for the most part, from the work and leadership of highly endowed men, yet it is also true that democracy means that the natural rights of all citizens are equal and, as far as is possible, opportunity and privilege should be made the same for all. As for education, this means that all the doors are to be thrown open, and that schools exist not for the favored few, but are the "birthright of every boy and girl born on American soil." An aristocracy may get on with an ignorant citizenship, since those who rule are from a special class, but in a democracy where the people rule, prosperity and stability depend upon universal education. It is the consciousness of this fact which has led the American people to develop an educational system "more versatile, more highly differentiated, and more adapted to individual and social needs than any other in the world."

While the United States has done more than any other nation in giving the quality of educational opportunity to all its people, it has not done all it could or should do. The educational tests made during the war showed not only an alarming amount of illiteracy, but also a vast number of persons with minds not developed beyond the capacity of a child of twelve. It is from this class of incapables that paupers, criminals, and social dependants who are a menace to society largely come. They are the prey of corrupt politicians and of radical agitators who, because they cannot think for themselves, can control them; further their plans and purpose, no matter how dangerous to the welfare of the nation these may be. The only way to secure a prosperous state and a contented people is to educate the masses. The people, whether living in rural districts or the congested districts of great cities, must be liberated from the fetters of ignorance by at least a good elementary education, and they must especially be made acquainted with the principles of democratic government, and with their privileges as duties as patriotic citizens. This will cost vast sums of money, but no price is too large for a republic to pay for its own safety and the welfare of its people.

But beyond the prosperity and security of the state, a democracy should educate its people for the sake of their own larger participation in the good things of life and their greater happiness. Ignorance condemns people to narrow, sordid experiences, to petty and often degraded ing interests, and keeps them from participating in those spiritual treasures of humanity which give inspiration and satisfaction to existence. We cannot wonder that the masses frequent the saloons, the low play houses, and the places of amusement where vulgarity and debauchery hold carnival. We have not given them a cultural life which makes these things disgusting to them and puts them in touch with higher and nobler spheres of interest. We have not developed their intellectual appreciation and their moral sense to where they crave for the better things. We leave them without knowledge of the principles of true social and economic life, and then wonder why their vote is cast for the loud mouthed radical or the political charlatan. We fail to teach them the fundamental principles of moral conduct, and then do not see why they prefer the gaudy saloon to the public library; or the low dance hall, or dive, or pool-room to the public lecture, the concert, or the place of elevating entertainment. We condemn them to vulgarity, meanness, and discontent, and cannot understand why they are not seeking the higher and more ennobling delights. This whole situation must be remedied by developing a higher type of man and woman, and by cultivating a taste for the more refining and ennobling interests of life; and it can be done by a right method of education.

This education must take two forms, first it must train the masses how to avoid poverty, make a comfortable living, and get a respectable place in the social world. This means a practical, technical education. This can be secured through a system of compulsory training during the school age period of every boy and girl in the community; and by a type of education which will fit him for some useful calling. This earlier education must be supplemented by night schools for bread winners, and by extension courses which will develop skill in some line of activity which will assist them in earning a decent livelihood. Second; it must train them in the duties and privileges of good citizenship. It is almost criminal for a republic to leave those who have the high privilege of the ballot in almost total ignorance of the fundamental principles of government, of the differences between political parties, of the vital questions which affect the welfare of the people, and of those social and economic laws which determine the prosperity of society. With this should go an acquaintance with the nature and value of American institutions. The English system of tutorial education for the laboring classes and their labor colleges and universities may well be initiated in this country. But above all every high school and institution of higher learning should be open, as it is, to every boy and girl no matter from what social class who aspires to his education. Scholarships which would help such persons to avail themselves of these opportunities would be a great service, since the cost of a university education has put such advantages largely out of the reach of poor people.

FOREIGN EDITORIAL DIGEST

THE TWILIGHT OF M. POINCARÉ

Berlin.—The VORWAERTS mentions Loucheur as the possible next Premier in France. It says:

"Nothing is more changeable than a parliamentary majority in France. It is an old story that a French minister rarely remains in power longer than a year, even when he seems to be supported by a large majority. The number of Ministers of the third Republic who have maintained their positions for two years can be counted up on your five fingers. The common lot awaits perhaps M. Poincaré. The surprising change of opinion which has taken place in the French Parliament was shown recently so clearly that the Paris press was unanimous in commenting on it. The possible crisis in the government will be caused by internal politics."

"In the realm of foreign politics Poincaré still has the confidence of the national bloc, although Tardieu reproaches him for not having obtained more than Briand and for not having followed with deeds his threatening speeches with regard to Germany."

"In any case we may be sure that Poincaré's fall would not much change international politics, and would be of no use to Germany. On the contrary it is to be feared that a crisis brought about by Tardieu and his party would only make our situation worse. For a Tardieu government would mean the immediate occupation of the Ruhr district. But a solution of this kind is quite unlikely. The Parliament and also the President of the Republic, Millerand, know very well that such a policy would quickly cause a catastrophe in France. Thus it is thought generally that Poincaré's successor will not be chosen among the extreme reactionaries, and Loucheur is said to be the most likely candidate. His last speech made a great impression on the Chamber."

WHILE THE LAW REMAINS EFFECTIVE IT MUST BE FULLY ENFORCED

The various statements dealing with the seeming failure of prohibition, ranging from that of President Harding to the danger in disregarding the law to the assault on non-enforcement by Major Reed, the junior Senator from Pennsylvania have aroused general comment on the situation. It seems to be agreed by editors, those who favor as well as those who oppose the Volstead law that, so long as it is on the statute books, it ought to be enforced. Many believe its repeal would be a good thing. Others place the blame for failure on favoritism in appointing enforcement agents.

"It requires a force of only 275 to enforce the narcotic laws," says the Baltimore SUN, (Dem.), but "to enforce the Volstead act the Government employs a force of 3,225. But that act, alas, is not enforced." The Christian Science MONITOR, (Ind.), insists that President Harding "knows that he, and he alone will be held responsible by the people," and that complete enforcement "will be in the method of appointing a party that none can overestimate." The present system holds "neither sense nor honor," the New York GLOBE, (Ind.), argues and inasmuch as this is well known "instead of viewing with alarm and appealing to the people, the administration will do well to meditate upon its own responsibility." This is also the opinion of the Scranton TIMES, (Dem.), which holds that "the trouble is in the method of appointing enforcement officers. Many of those appointed are unsuited in the jobs and entirely out of sympathy with their work." There should be cooperation from the public as well as officialdom, the Utica PRESS, (Rep.), is convinced because "when the cabinet recognizes a situation of such gravity it is described as 'deplorable' it is about time for Mr. John R. Public to ask himself whether he is really being a good neighbor or not." In this very connection, however, the Philadelphia PUBLIC LEDGER, (Ind. Rep.), suggests that "some people are disposed to wonder now whether the most serious aspects of the situation are not now confronting the President are not due to the over-zealousness of the supporters of too drastic regulation."

If the law is the "will of the majority of the people in the several states," the Philadelphia BULLETIN, (Ind.), holds, "it must be capable of enforcement and must be enforced; else our theory of democratic government is at fault and its failure confessed. The mask of hypocrisy must be thrown off and profession of favor for the law given force, or confession made of disfavor." The New York WORLD, (Dem.), taking a somewhat similar view, is convinced that "the difficulty is not with the officials or with the public. It is with the law itself. So long as the Volstead act remains as it is, disregard for at least one article in the Federal code will be as natural for most people as breathing, and the corruption of a large percentage of public servants follows as inevitably as night after day." Local influence may be the solution, however, in the opinion of the South Bend TRIBUNE, (Ind.), which argues that "if the states do their duty no argument for prohibition modification on a basis of non-enforcement can stand." And the Pittsburgh LEADER, (Prog. Rep.), suggests that "only a fool would claim the Volstead law is enforced, or has been enforced since it became operative. Whether it can be enforced is another argument. Enforcement has never been tried. The thing to be decided is whether we shall make a really honest effort to enforce or to begin plans for modification or possibly repeal." In this connection the Chicago NEWS, (Ind.), insists that "scandalous inefficiency due to the spoils system of appointments has added much to the amazingly bad record of the enforcement service." There is a possibility, the Detroit FREE PRESS, (Ind.), says, that "a calm dispassionate, uncolored picture of conditions from an authoritative source may serve to shock the people of the United States into some sort of heartfelt realization of the sin they are committing against themselves in becoming a nation of rebels against law, and not against law handed down to them from others, but against law they themselves have offered or made." Endorsing this line of argument the Binghamton PRESS, (Ind.), insists that "a given law may be good or bad, but a law that is not enforced against all alike, is always bad." Still the Chicago TRIBUNE, (Rep.), holds that "law makers must have some respect for law themselves. It must not violate fundamental principles. That is the beginning of trouble."

The Norfolk LEDGER DISPATCH, (Ind. Dem.), thinks that if the President wanted to bring about "respect for prohibition he will use every effort to modify the drastic terms of the Volstead act. The saloon-keepers brought about prohibition, and just as surely, the professional prohibitionists and their inexperienced though sincere amateur associates have brought about disrespect for prohibition laws. The saloon-keepers went too far. It is also the belief of the Buffalo TIMES, (Ind. Dem.), that "the people violate the Volstead law because it is a law repugnant to economic, commercial, social and medical necessity and impossible to reconcile with human nature. That is no excuse for violating it. But it is a condition of affairs that does call for unanswered argument and reasonable emphasis for its repeal or modification."

"Prohibition is a ghastly failure," asserts the St. Louis POST DISPATCH, (Ind.), "but the deplorable conditions that excite the President's apprehension and anxiety are not the final consequences of this tyranny. The breakdown of government is the sinister threat of present conditions."

There is an immediate necessity, the New York POST, (Ind.), feels that "a thorough-going reorganization of the prohibition machinery for vigilance in the matter of congressional majorities are still overwhelmingly for the law, and surrender now would be the surrender of an army to an army greatly inferior in size. Wars that do not go well may yet be won by the application of sufficient backbone." The various developments, however, impel the New Haven JOURNAL COURIER, (Ind.), to inquire whether "the time has not come for the advocates of prohibition and its opponents to set aside their prejudices and together calmly consider the situation from the point of view of the general welfare. But it is the opinion of the Cincinnati TIMES STAR, (Rep.), that "the matter of enforcement is a much larger question than prohibition. Today we have prohibition modified by graft and corruption. Ugly deals are being made although nobody believes that the men higher up know of or condone existing conditions. But so grievous is the situation that the real issue today is—'Shall we have prohibition modified by the corrupt practices of officials or shall the modifications come as the result of amendments to the law, duly enacted? Shall the Bootlegger and the Greaser amend the laws if effect, or shall our Congressmen amend them in fact?' And the Boston TRANS-CRIP, (Ind. Rep.), insists that "whether the Volstead act stands or is amended or repealed, the method of enforcement, so long as it remains on the statute book, cries to heaven for drastic reform. The dregs and the wets, alike, ought unhesitatingly to give every possible effort to clean up this four plague spot in our government."

'Lulu Bett' To Be Played Here Today

Interest Is Divided Between Gale Story And Work Of Players

Considerable interest is being shown in the production of "Miss Lulu Bett" by the Wisconsin Players at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Friday evening. The interest is about divided, however between the play, which was written by Zona Gale and the players, who are the best known group of nonprofessional players in the middle west.

Miss Gale's play was put on in New York city and other places by a professional cast, bringing considerable fame to the author and the production. When the author saw the Wisconsin Players' production, however, she said it surpassed the work of the professionals. She especially recommended the artistic and sympathetic way in which the entire story was handled.

When it is said that the Wisconsin Players are amateur actors the impression is given that they are inexperienced. This is not the case with the cast of "Miss Lulu Bett." Several of the actors have had considerable professional experience and are working out many ideas of their own concerning the stage and the theatre. Others have had offers to go on the legitimate stage but have not cared for the routine of commercial productions.

More than $2,000 has been spent to make the state tour of the Gale play a possibility. Any money which the organization makes from its performance will go toward the little theatre which long has been the dream of the organization and which will become a reality in the near future.

Actors Do Well In First Play Of Club Workshop

From the standpoint of the audience, the directors and the actors, the first one-act play program given by Appleton Women's Club Dramatic workshop at the clubroom on Thursday evening was a success. Many of the actors had never taken part in amateur theatricals before Thursday evening and they played their parts in a most sympathetic way. Because the impromptu stage at the rear of the clubroom took up considerable room, the capacity of the house was limited to 80, and all the available space was taken.

Every member of the workshop took part in the program, with 23 in the three plays and the other 5 acting as ushers and helpers. The Misses Florence Miller and Marion Ingthron, members of the recreational leaders class, helped with the staging of the production. Practically the entire setting for "The Neighbors" was loaned to the cast by Miss Emma Barclay.

Tapestry Weaving

Tapestry weaving had its beginning far back in the early history of mankind. Fragments which have come down to us through the centuries indicate that even the primitive races possessed a certain knowledge of simple forms of weaving. The ancient Egyptians were tapestry weavers—fragments in the Cairo Museum date as far back as 1440 B.C. The Greeks in their literature refer to tapestry weaving, and pieces found in Greek Tombs bear out this evidence of their knowledge of the art.

Reproductions of these antique tapestries are now displayed in the College Avenue windows, on the walls of the Oneida Street Store, and in the Gift Rooms on second floor. Pieces suitable for living room, hall and dining room.

These tapestries have been reproduced for us in France and Belgium and have been woven by machine instead of hand looms. Great care has been taken in the selection of colors. These modern tapestries preserve all the charm and individuality of the originals.

Six designs representing the varied life of the old Egyptian, Arabian and Turk. Pictures illustrating the unchanging living of these peoples covering many centuries.

4 ft. 2 inch by 5 ft. 9 inch size at $18.00.

Special closely-woven Tapestries in a number of small reproductions of fine pieces. They are especially attractive for small spaces that ordinarily are left undecorated. There are six patterns. 19½ inches by 30½ inches at $4.50 each.

Allover Tapestries—six designs suitable for using on the wall back of a davenport. 19½ inches wide by 35 inches long at $4.25.

TRADES COUNCIL TO TAKE CARE OF NEEDY FAMILIES

Second Annual "Merry Christmas" Movement Gets Under Way

Kaukauna—The poor and needy in Kaukauna will again be cheered at Christmas time with food, clothing and money as a result of action taken by the Kaukauna Trades and Labor council at a meeting Wednesday evening in trades and labor hall. The success of last year's venture was so gratifying that the council has decided that the effort will be well worth while again this year.

Contributions to Kaukauna's Christmas fund are in order. "A very merry Christmas for everybody" is the slogan and untiring effort will be made to attain that goal. A committee composed of George Seifert, Joseph Murphy and Oscar Jerke has been appointed to handle contributions. It is believed that a canvass of the city will not be necessary. Members of the council were of the opinion that people are well acquainted with the need and will give voluntarily. Families unable to provide their own Christmas happiness may be referred to the committee for investigation.

The fund has been started with donations of $15 each by the trades council and machinists union.

SMALL CROWD HEARS SPLENDID PROGRAM

Kaukauna—Efforts of Kaukauna post, No. 41, American Legion to secure a worth while musical entertainment for its citizens apparently are not appreciated. Less than ten persons heard the program given by the Metropolitan Entertainers Thursday evening at the auditorium.

Miss Josephine Georgette upheld her nickname, "the musical prodigy" when she played violin, saxophone, clarinet, cophones, Swiss bells and then sang a few songs. Her medley of popular songs on the Hungarian dulcimer, the oldest musical instrument known to mankind, probably was the best received of the evening.

James Jordan, tenor soloist sang several solos and assisted in duets with Marian Driscoll, pianist and soprano. Charles A. Donovan, the jovial entertainer, showed unusual skill in playing the cello. His imitation of a country town violinist at a dance created considerable amusement. As another novelty, he played two selections on a steel hand saw, using a violin bow to secure vibrations.

WOMEN FIND NEW WAY TO BOOST SALE OF STAMPS

Christmas Seals Are Sent To Merchants—No House To House Sale

Kaukauna—Local businessmen and citizens are receiving letters this week from the committee of Kaukauna Women's club which has charge of the annual sale of Anti-tuberculosis Christmas seals. Each letter contains a number of stamps which the receiver is asked to dispose of. Children in the schools will not act as sales agents this year. Although they have been given stamps to take into their own homes, it will not be necessary for them to go from house to house in an attempt to boost the sale. It is believed that to send the Christmas seals by mail will bring better results with less work.

Thus far people in general have been cooperating with the Women's club in the work and indications are that this year's total receipts will be far greater than those of previous years. Kaukauna stands twenty-second among sixty-two cities in this state in which there are local tuberculosis organizations in the number of stamps sold during the last six years. Burlington is first, the average sale of stamps amounting to 15½ cents for every person in the city.

Here is the letter which accompanies the seals:

"Each of the enclosed Christmas seals carries the message 'for better health' and when used on your outgoing mail and packages they advertise you as being behind that movement."

"The returns from the sale of these seals are equally divided, one half to the Kaukauna Women's club, which will be used for health purposes; and one half to support the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association."

"It is hoped that this allotment will meet with your approval. The enclosed stamped envelope may be used for your remittance or any communication you may care to make."

The Christmas tree exercises and the distribution of gifts will begin at 8 o'clock. A live Santa Claus will be present and will see that every child gets a gift. ## BAD RIVER LAND STILL UNDER STATE CONTROL

By Associated Press
Madison—The state's title to land other than school land on the Bad River reservation has never been in validated and still rests with Wisconsin, the attorney general's department held Thursday. It advised that the state's title to the land is not in question, and now claims that it has lost the title because of the state's insecure title. The attorney general held that the lands in question were swamp lands to which Wisconsin had a clear title, until proper authority held other wise.

FARMER INCOME IS LESS THAN IN CITY

Wage Comparisons Proving This Fact Announced By E. E. White

Farmer incomes in the state of Wisconsin are on the average below those of the worker in the city, according to figures received from E. E. White, director of the Wisconsin legislative reference library. His conclusion is based on data gathered by the United States government. The average income per farm totals $1,863 a year. In fifteen other states farmers have a higher average yearly income. The average value of Wisconsin farms is $14,143.

FROM CITY PERSONS
Income derived from city persons with an average income of less than $2,000 a year is nearly four times as great as that derived from city persons with a yearly income of more than $2,000. The total income from the former class is $827,552,000 and that of the latter $282,742,000.

Income from farm laborers totals $75,541,000 and from farmers $352,618,000. Corporate surplus amounts to $57,850,000. The total income, excluding farmers and farm laborers is $1,038,358,000. Including the agricultural class the total is $1,468,513,000.

PER ONE STATE LOWER
According to Mr. White, the particular significance of these figures lies in the fact that they show Wisconsin one of four states—North Carolina, West Virginia and Alabama—in which only one-fourth of the non-agricultural income is received by persons whose annual income is under $2,000. In Wisconsin this class actually receives 27.23 per cent of the total, which is lower than any other state except Alabama. Many states have as much as fifty per cent of the total income in this class.

THE GENERAL AVERAGE
The average income of every man, woman and child is $557 or about $47 a month. The average income for every person gainfully employed and

VOCATION BOARD GOING TO MEETING

Accept Invitation Of Hambrecht To Share In Milwaukee Conference

Members of Appleton vocational school board have received invitations from George P. Hambrecht of Madison, director of the state board of vocational education, to attend a meeting of the state board in the central continuation school at Milwaukee, Wednesday, Dec. 20. A majority of the members are planning to attend.

A program is being arranged with suitable speakers to bring some of the problems before the various vocational boards of the state with reference to the work in which the members are engaged. A part of the day will be set apart for discussion.

For some years past a movement has been in progress in this state to bring educational contact to those who through force of circumstances, have been denied an opportunity to attend the regular school system full time. Mr. Hambrecht declared in his letter.

"This movement has been fostered and promoted by local boards of industrial education, assisted and encouraged by the state board of vocational education.

Up to the present time the local boards have had little or no opportunity to become acquainted with the members of similar boards in other communities, nor have they been able, with few exceptions, to familiarize themselves with the type of work outside of their cities."

Lawrentians Want Skating Rink On Campus

Lawrence college students have started a movement for a skating rink on the college campus. Efforts are being made by some of the outdoor fans to have the college flood the tennis court site.

Skating among the students will be one of the most popular sports this winter as is indicated by the interest in the indoor skating classes, being conducted by Coach H. D. McChesney in the gymnasium each Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The students feel that while the city is maintaining rinks in various sections of Appleton, they are more for the school children and residents nearby.

PLAN BOOSTER MEETING FOR TRAINING SCHOOL

A dinner and rally for all persons interested in the starting of an evening training school in religious education will be held about Jan. 1 in one of the churches cooperating in the Appleton program of religious education. Prof. Earle Emme of Lawrence college is preparing the course of training which probably will be used if the school is started. His plans will be submitted at the rally with the purpose of launching the movement at the beginning of the year.

COUNTY BANKERS ELECT KONRAD AS NEW PRESIDENT

Burt Williams Unable To Be Present For Talk At Annual Banquet

William J. Konrad, cashier of Citizens National bank, was elected president of Outagamie County Bankers association at the meeting at Hotel Northern Thursday evening. Other officers elected were: Charles Freund, cashier First National bank, Seymour, vice president; Frank X. Groh, cashier of Outagamie County bank, secretary and treasurer. About 75 members were present and it was decided to hold the next meeting in Appleton on the second Wednesday in February. C. E. Raught, cashier of the First National bank of Kaukauna, and president of the association, acted as toastmaster. He announced that Burt Williams of Milwaukee, who was to have delivered an address on "Bank Taxation" was unable to be present. The evening was taken up with a general discussion of that subject on which J. J. Sherman, A. H. Krugmeier, Louis O. Wissmann and James I. Monaghan of Appleton, Charles R. Raught of Kaukauna, and Charles R. Prosser of Seymour and others expressed their views. It was the unanimous voice of the bankers that they were perfectly willing to pay what they considered a just tax. Educational work as outlined by the state committee of Wisconsin Bankers association also was discussed. It related to the education of bank employees in all departments and to education in banking of the children of the public schools.

Revive Club Of School Heads At Dinner Tonight

Fox River Valley public school principals and school executives will meet at the Sherman house at 6:30 Friday evening to reorganise the Schoolmasters club. A banquet will be followed by a program of which Dr. E. L. Baker, director of music, will have charge. Dr. Baker will tell of the great educational advantages of music in the schools, illustrating his points with singing by members of the fourth grade of the Fourth district school and with singing by the men themselves. A meeting of the principals of Appleton schools was held in the office of the Lincoln school at 3:30 Thursday afternoon to perfect the plans of the meeting. The reorganization meeting was called by the Appleton group after careful investigation among the school men to determine whether they wished to revive the club. It probably will meet once a month and in the various towns which are represented in the membership.

NO DAMAGE CAUSED BY THURSDAY'S COLD RAIN

The slight rise in temperature after the start of the rain Thursday night is held responsible for the fact that no damage was caused by the sleet and rain during the night. Telephone, telegraph and traction company officials reported Friday that they had no trouble of any kind. Early Thursday evening the fear was expressed that if the temperature should drop during the rain this district might experience a repetition of the storm which caused millions of dollars damage last February.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Larsen and Dr. James A. Rolfe left Thursday morning by automobile for Milwaukee where they will attend the eleventh annual convention of the Wisconsin Chiropractic association to be held at the Hotel Pfister, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Patrolman Matthew McGinnis will take off his brass-buttoned blue uniform to don the simple garb of a plain clothes man. He has been advanced to the rank of detective to succeed Detective Joseph Schmirler, who last week was promoted to desk sergeant. The appointment was made Thursday evening by the police and fire commission. Detective McGinnis was appointed to the police force on January 12, 1919. The resignation of Sergeant James F. McCabe a few months ago caused a vacancy that resulted in the double promotion.

'Genius' At P.O. Reveals Way To Remove Weeds.

Found a sure method of removing weeds. No poison, chemicals or any offensive matter are used. One of the rural mail carriers discovered it and is now imparting his discovery to his associates. The failure of certain farmers to remove the weeds along the road near mail boxes and long tested the good disposition of the carriers. When friendly notices and reminders of postal regulations failed to rouse the patrons, the carrier resolved on a method of his very own. For the sake of science and posterity he is now ready to disclose the method used. He borrowed a scythe and cut the weeds himself. Farmers have given their hearty approval to the discovery, but somehow or other the other carriers are not very enthusiastic about it.

C. OF C. WILL ASK
1-HOUR PARKING ORDINANCE HERE

Bus Law Investigation Also Will Be Pushed, Directors Decide

Adoption of an ordinance restricting parking of automobiles on College-ave to one hour in the congested district during the busy part of the day will be asked of the common council by the chamber of commerce following approval by the board of directors at its meeting Thursday evening of the recommendation of the retail merchants division.

Formal request will be filed with the ordinance committee asking that the proposal be given consideration. The plan is to relieve the parking situation. An exception is asked in the case of physicians who need their cars near their offices for emergencies. These are to have some form of designation giving this privilege.

Recommendation of the merchants' advocating investigation of the manner in which the new motorbus ordinance is being enforced also was approved. Steps will be taken to find out which lines are not following parking and schedule requirements, and why they are allowed to do so. It was said that only one of two lines are the violators.

HIT TRANSIENTS

Some discussion occurred also concerning outside peddlers or transient merchants who bring inferior goods here and represent them as first class. Merchants desire to protect themselves and the public against such practices and ask a city ordinance that will provide regulation of such sales. The chamber will write to 20 cities the size of Appleton to see how

RIVER RESIDENTS
CHINA'S PROBLEM

Returned Missionary Tells M. E. People Of Oriental Situation

That the people living in boats and the coolie class constitute the great objective to mission work in China was the opinion of Miss M. Strawick, a returned missionary from China who spoke Thursday evening in First Methodist church.

Miss Strawick is stationed at Feuchting. She said millions of native people live in boats on rivers and near the wharfs are industrious and comparatively cleanly considering the conditions under which they live. She stated they are anxious for advantages given people on land and heretofore have been practically untouched by missionary effort. She spoke at length on the local conditions in the south of China.

Musical numbers were given by Miss Irene Bidwell, Miss Dorcas Jacka and Mrs. Mabel Meyer. A reception was given for Miss Strawick at which two persons in Chinese costume served. A table of curios attracted a great deal of attention for their beauty of design, coloring and artistic work. Many of them were picked up in China by the Rev. G. W. Verity and given to his sister, Mrs. Emma Hubbard.

There Is A Difference In Phonographs

The differences are more important to the buyer than most people imagine.

By means of exclusive patented features—the Ultona and the Oval Tone Amplifier made entirely of seasoned hollyhock—Brunswick achieves perfect rendition of the so-called "difficult tones," reproducing even Soprano High C without "metallic" suggestion, discord or vibration!

For that reason you will find the Brunswick in homes of musicians and those who appreciate tone reproduction.

Brunswick dealers—especially those who know the different phonographs by comparison—are enthused by Brunswick Betterments, and, naturally feature the Brunswick.

The Chickering Studio, on Michigan Boulevard, Chicago's most exclusive music store features the Brunswick (selling about 98% Brunswicks and about 2% of another well known make.)

The Steinway Branch houses in the East all feature the Brunswick.

J. B. Bradford Piano Co.—Edmund Gram Piano Co.—Carbury's Chickering Studio—Lyric Music Store—Chas. J. Orth—all the leading music stores in Milwaukee now feature the Brunswick.

With the exception of manufacturers' jobbers, the Brunswick is being featured by a larger majority of the better music stores in the United States.

Make a comparison and you too will be enthused by Brunswick's Betterments.

MOVIE ON ZONING EXPECTED TO AID MOVEMENT HERE

Elaborately Prepared Film Will Be Shown At C. Of C. Banquet

Watching a fascinating motion picture and unconsciously learning at the same time in the simplest way what zoning and its purposes are is what chamber of commerce members will do at the monthly forum dinner at 6:15 Monday evening in the French room of the Sherman house.

"Zoning Plans," the American city Bureau film which has been obtained for display here, shows the importance of zoning to the importance of the household. It is a small, but of great effect, of unobstructed buildings, especially where the rights, life, health, and safety of the common man are concerned. It is a small, but of great effect, of unobstructed buildings, especially where the rights, life, health, and safety of the common man are concerned.

Animated cartoons included in the film show the more technical side of zoning. The importance of zoning is shown all through the United States also is depicted.

This picture will be presented in connection with the address by Dan E. Wright, St. Paul, Minn., on "What's the Chamber of Commerce for?"

RADIO PATTERN

When the air is filled with criss-crossing messages and thousands of operators are pounding the keys, how will they be able to tell one from the other?

First Assignment of definite wave lengths to every operator is necessary. A definite plan in the country would be means of avoiding their interfering with one another. But a difficulty arises here, which causes this to be impractical for the present.

This difficulty arises from the little knowledge we have as yet concerning the definite limits of radio transmission, especially as regards the wave length. For example, the longest wave length in use is about 150 to 200 meters, in which amateurs are confined. That according to scientists is the practical low limit for radio transmission.

But how far we can go above this is still to be discovered. And when that is definitely known, it will be practicable to divide the total range of transmission into definite limits for individual purposes.

DEFINITE RANGES
For example, if it is finally decided that 500,000 meters is the highest practicable wave length for any kind of transmission, and it is estimated there will be a demand for 1,000,000 transmission licenses at any one time, then allotments may be made by which each operator is allowed half a meter wave length range at a certain definite measurement. Thus, if all operators stick to their allotments and did not exceed the bounds of their range, even one of them could use the air at the same time without experiencing any interference.

What the highest possible limit is, is a matter of conjecture at present and one of study for radio engineers. The highest wave length in practical use today is 1,500 meters, the high limit for secret naval communication. Commercial companies use wave lengths of 1,500 to 1,600 meters, while government stations send out public reports on wave lengths of 2,500 or 3,000 meters.

SCIENTISTS EXPERIMENTING
Experiments are being pursued to extend the practicability of use of much higher wave lengths. In Omaha, Dr. Frederick H. Miller and Harvey Farmer have a recent set with which they say they could hear messages sent out on a wave length of 500,000 meters. Marconi, the famous wireless inventor, had a powerful receiving set on his yacht, Elettra, with which he reported having received a wireless impulse on a wave length of about 500,000 meters.

This is going to be a radio "hot" time.

For the last six months manufacturers have been preparing for this event and fans have been tuning in on related talks from broadcasting stations throughout the country.

The chief idea behind the feature is commercial. Radio dealers have been stocking up for the Christmas holidays. Manufacturers have been putting out apparatus in greater quantities than ever before. All because they expect a last minute rush for Christmas gifts in the form of radio sets and parts.

Men who have been following close by the sale of radio material say this winter will show an even greater increase in the number of fans than did last winter. That is because the science has been developed more thoroughly and less trouble or interference is experienced with the new apparatus.

At the same time nearly every radio amateur and novice who has had a receiving set expects a Christmas gift in the form of an additional vacuum tube or what-not that would help increase the efficiency of his reception. And they have prepared for the rush. Even with the addition of various Christmas toys.

Toys also have taken on a radio atmosphere. Kewpies are being designed with radio headsets on their ears. Toy receiving sets are being sold. And there are other forms of radio playthings.

Then, for Christmas Eve and Christmas day, the large radio broadcasting stations are preparing special programs. Interest on that day will be centered around the radio receiving set up in the attic, even if that is where the fan has to keep it.

Danger

Boy Scouts Take Initiative in Warning All Skaters to Keep Off River Where Ice Is Thin—Lives of Various Rinks Built by City.

In accordance with the boy scout custom, H. P. Buck, scout executive, has issued a warning to boy scouts and other skaters in the city to keep off the river because of the danger from thin ice. Mr. Buck points out that Appleton is now equipped with several skating rinks where there can be no danger from drowning and that people are advised to make use of the rinks rather than the river.

Boy scouts are great advocates of all outdoor sports, but insist that they be performed with the minimum of danger. Other boy scout executives have issued warnings concerning the dangers of skating on partly open rivers.

anticipating the practice of observing "silent night" each week in various cities. In San Antonio, Tex. for instance, Friday is the night when the local station is silent. This gives the listeners a chance to tune in on more distant stations.

APPLAUSE BY LETTER

One feature of radio broadcasting of which the artists are slow in becoming accustomed is the applause or lack of it. It is a queer sensation to do your bit at the microphone only to be answered by a strange silence. The applause however does come in by mail and from those listeners by wire near enough, by telephone.

RADIO IN FICTION

Authors are beginning to accept radio as taking a regular part in the doings of people. Soon radio in fiction will become as popular as the automobile and, instead of picking up the telephone or listening at the door, the villain will eavesdrop by wireless.

COAL AN OBSTACLE

Experts of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, testing radio as a means of communication between the pit and the surface, have found that the coal strata were a serious obstruction. Signals were successfully transmitted through 50 feet of coal however. By using higher wave lengths, the experts believe they may be able to penetrate even farther.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea And Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

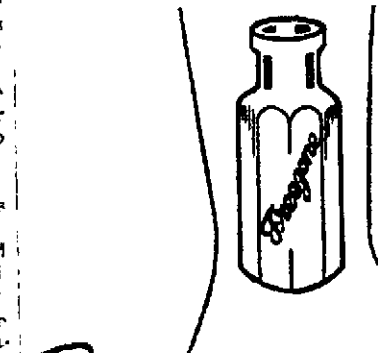

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to a grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Witch's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

CORNS

"Doesn't hurt a bit." Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Then, for Christmas Eve and Christmas day, the large radio broadcasting stations are preparing special programs. Interest on that day will be centered around the radio receiving set up in the attic, even if that is where the fan has to keep it.

Banks' Santa Claus Slips $88,000 Into Stockings Of 2,200 Savers In Appleton

Christmas Savings Club, Gaining Yearly, Prove, Great Teacher In Thrift—Money Goes Into Investments

Savings of Appleton people this year in Christmas Savings clubs of local banks will aggregate about $88,000, the largest amount in the history of the local institutions. The total number of members or depositors is about 2,200 who average savings about $40 each for the year.

This does not mean this sum will be expended in Christmas buying. Originally the clubs were organized with that purpose in view, but the greater part of the savings now are used for other purposes, such as starting of savings accounts, purchase of bonds and the payment of taxes.

The first Christmas savings club in Appleton was organized 8 years ago by Outagamie County bank which was one of the members in the state in the venture. As the result of a strenuous membership campaign on the part of a group of solvers, 700 members were secured whose deposits aggregated $23,000.

HAD FIELD ALONE

The large membership was due to the fact that the bank had the entire field, said Frank Groh, cashier. Another bank organized a club the following year and for the last few years all the banks have been supporting strong clubs.

It has been generally observed by local bankers that the Christmas savings club has been one of the stepping stones toward thrift on the part of many patrons who now have substantial bank accounts. The membership is open to young and old and while many parents and children join the club to lay aside small amounts each week for the purchase of Christmas presents, the habit of saving is soon acquired with the result that savings accounts are invariably opened.

after the first or second check has been received.

December is the month of the payment of checks to members and the starting of new clubs for the following year. All the banks report a substantial gain in both membership and deposits this year and judging from the number of persons who already have joined the new clubs the membership will be nearly doubled next year. This feature of banking has grown to such an extent as to form an important department of each bank.

CONVERT TO INVESTMENTS

James I. Monahan, assistant cashier of the Citizens National bank, has observed a material increase in the size of weekly deposits of members of the club and says also that the majority of members convert their checks into bonds or open savings accounts. Wives frequently surprise their husbands with Christmas checks which they have saved from their household allowance and husbands frequently surprise their wives with a check covering savings of which they had been kept in ignorance.

Louis Wissmann, cashier of the First National bank, reported a substantial increase in both membership and deposits and said the Christmas savings club was especially popular with young married couples and with young people contemplating marriage. Parents frequently take out memberships for their children and children often take out memberships for themselves, taking advantage of the smaller weekly deposits, he said.

Miss Genevieve Kober, who is in charge of the Christmas savings department of Appleton state bank, is kept busy taking care of new members who are joining the club of that bank in greater numbers than ever before. While many call for the higher weekly deposit rates, the $1 and $2 weekly deposits, he asserted

BOATS HAVE HARD TIME BREAKING ICE

The Nelle R and Herman Hitz battled their way through the ice on Fox river and Lake Winnebago Tuesday on their way to their home port at Oshkosh for what probably will be their last trip of the season.

Progress was slow and the movement of the vessels was greatly impeded by the substantial ice crust on the river and lake. The tugs attracted attention while passing through Appleton on their way up Fox river.

weekly deposit rate is the most popular at present, she said.

Frank Groh, cashier of Outagamie County bank, said the membership of the Christmas savings club of his bank is composed principally of adults who take out memberships for themselves. The greatest call is for the $1 and $2 weekly deposits, he asserted

Science Adds 12 Years To Average Life

By Associated Press
Chicago—Twelve to fourteen years have been added to the average human life in the last half century by the progress of medical science, Dean John M. Dodson, of the Rush Medical School declared in an address before the University of Chicago forum.

Infant mortality, he said, had been cut in half, tuberculosis largely robbed of its terrors, and fevers and epidemics brought under control, but six hundred thousand still die in the United States annually from preventable diseases.

LABOR SHORTAGE BOOSTS CHRISTMAS TREE PRICES

Green Bay, Wis.—Wholesalers of Christmas trees in Green Bay and other northern Wisconsin and Michigan points report a slight increase in the price of their product this year due to the scarcity of trees from the northern woods which is believed to have been caused by the labor shortage there. Several carloads of trees have been shipped by Green Bay dealers to New York, Chicago and Kansas City, the prices ranging from 18 cents for the smaller ones to 25 cents for the larger community trees.

To try Solite is just like giving your car a tonic. You get the thrill of eagerness and flexibility from your engine. There's a good reason for it.

Solite is something new. It's a light gas that keeps your piston under power throughout the stroke.

When you have a steady flow of power you get good mileage and smooth, easy running. That's what Solite delivers.

It adds a lot of joy to driving a car. It's better than any other so-called light gasoline you have ever used.

Joey Sangor Fails To Get Bantam Crown By Shade; Lynch Wins

Zwick Of Kaukauna Knocks
Burns Out In Seventh Round
In Milwaukee Auditorium Fight

Milwaukee—Joe Lynch, boss of the bantams, shaded Joey Sangor, Lap-ham park's loan hearted youngster, in ten fast rounds at the Auditorium Thursday night. Lynch won and won handily, but Sangor was as great, if not greater, in defeat than was the champion in victory.

The kid, who a year ago was mingling with the amateurs, stood toe to toe with the title holder, swapped punch for punch, and lost only because Lynch was wise to all the tricks of his trade, "outsmarted" him as they say in ring parlance. Some of the champion's craftiness included a repertoire of illegal stuff such as heeling, backhanding, and elbowing and several times, early in the battle, the referee threatened to throw him out of the ring if he did not cut out his rough stuff.

LYNCH FORGETS HIS RIGHT
Lynch, owner of a million dollar right, used nothing but his left throughout the battle. Only twice did he shoot his right and though both blows landed flush on Sangor's jaw, Joey took the shock each time and rushed back for more. Like his opponent, Sangor also fought a left-handed battle, and early in the mixup looked and jabbed his left to the champion's head in fancy fashion. Once early in the bout Sangor crossed his great right hand and jarred the champion to his heels. The blow landed too high to topple Lynch over but it shook him up.

Lynch, in the sixth round, shot a straight right to the chin and Lynch crashed into the ropes, but the rest of the time Joey depended entirely on his left.

Sangor was at his best in the early rounds. He kept crowding the spin-like Irishman and hooked his left repeatedly to his opponent's body and head without a return.

As the battle proceeded, however, the champion warmed to his task and started to pump his left into Joey's features with monotonous regularity. The constant thud of the leather against Sangor's nose started a stream of blood in the third round and from then to the finish Joey was far from a handsome sight, the blood streaming from his nose in every session.

ZWICK LANDS R. O.
Bill Burns chose to step in and mix it with Jack Zwick, the two gun artist from Kaukauna. For six rounds and a little more Bill went along all right. He had a shade the better of the argument up to this time, making Jack look sick with a sweet left hook. But Zwick let a short right hand fly to the chin in the seventh, and Bill crumpled into his own corner. He didn't even have his eyes open until after the ten count, and didn't really come to until he got to his dressing room.

There was another knock-out registered in the second round. Harry Katal had Jack O'Toole punch drunk in the third round, so Referee Burns stopped it.

ROD AND REEL By Dixie Carroll

FLORIDA FISHING
Every time we get a wintry blast or so from that dear old Medicine Hat certain members of the angling gentry curl up in a soft, overstuffed easy chair anchored on the starboard side of a high-powered radiator and shuffle off to the Florida reefs with an idea of getting the dope on how to "get there fast and with the most tackle," as our old friend General Forrest used to say when he wanted to win a battle.

And from January on the Florida waters sure offer a variety of game fish that will test the tackle skill of these old-time veterans of the fresh-water lakes and streams. You can get 'em in all styles and shapes, and say nothing of the colors and they come from little old five and ten pounds per tail kicking game fish.

One of the greatest little scrappers of the southern waters is the yellow-tail or amberjack, and he fights from the time you hook him until the last flop in the boat. In fact, you never are sure of landing him until he is safely gaffed and hoisted. He is a tricky rascal, full of dashing action from the first long rush, and handled on fairly light tackle the game is a nerve tinger for the upstream basser. When you are likely to run into the big fellows a 16-ounce tarpon rod with a six-foot tip and a reel that will hold 600 feet of wet Cuttyhunk 24-thread line, is light enough tackle for these heavyweights, while a No. 10, hand-forged hook with live bait is about right for the amberjack family.

Of course tarpon is the fish that all sportsmen who infest the Florida waters want, but there are times when tarpon, like every other fish, aren't biting. Kingfish and barracuda furnish lots of sport, but the live water fish after is the amberjack. Amberjack run from the baby size up to 50, 60 and 100 pounds, although specimens of the larger sizes are rare. Amberjack fishing is an art in itself, unlike fishing for any other finny creature.

The Quinneys, as the result of their victory over the league leaders, are now tied for first place with the Navajos who took three straight from the Hurons.

Plank of the Miamis was high man for the night with 537 pins. Schmidt of the Hurons, bumped into some "hard luck" when he left all but 263 pins standing.

GREEN BAY AGOS OVER PIN TOURNAY

Entry Blanks Can Be Obtained
From George Buboltz,
In Appleton

The state bowling association will stage its 1923 tournament at Green Bay during the latter part of January and the first two weeks in February, with the promise that the tournament is going to be the greatest ever held in the country.

Wisconsin has always lead the van in support of state bowling meetings, and the Green Bay tournament and convention promises to eclipse any of the past in attendance.

Green Bay is all agog over the coming tournament and will probably have an entry of about 500 teams, which alone would make a good tournament, but the balance of the state will enter another 500, giving a huge total of 1,000 teams and about 6,000 participants, making it the greatest athletic carnival in the middle west.

Secretary William P. Fenske has established his tournament office at 175 Second-st., Milwaukee, and will remain in that city until Jan. 14, 1923, at which date the entry will close. Bowlers throughout the state are urged to get into communication with Mr. Fenske to secure what satisfactory dates they desire.

Entry blanks to the tournament also can be obtained by Appleton bowlers from George Buboltz, secretary of the Appleton City Bowling association, at 1297 College-ave or at the First National bank where he is employed.

RIPON SELECTS SIX LAWRENTIANS ON ALL-STATE TEAM

Kotal Is Given Pilot's Job—
Three Men On Second Squad

Six Lawrentians are placed on the Little Five all-state eleven chosen by the Ripon College Days, a publication issued by students of that school. It is particularly interesting to note that Kotal, Lawrence quarterback, is given the position by the Riponers. Kotal was also placed on the mythical eleven by Beloit and other schools. In its choice of a second team the publication picked three other Lawrence players.

According to the Ripon College Days the performance of Schneider and Ludwig of Ripon, McLaughlin of Beloit, and Kotal, Smith and McGlynn of Lawrence assures them positions before anyone else on the honor eleven.

FIRST TEAM	R. E.
Schneider (Ripon)	R. E.
McGlynn (Lawrence)	R. T.
MacMurray (Carroll)	R. G.
W. Smith (Lawrence)	C.
Hunting (Lawrence)	L. G.
Jordan (Ripon)	L. T.
Stoll (Lawrence)	L. E.
Ladwig (Ripon)	E. R.
Basing (Lawrence)	R. H. B.
McLaughlin (Beloit)	L. H. B.
Kotal (Lawrence)	Q. B.

SECOND TEAM
Butler (Beloit) R. E.
Graf (Ripon) R. T.
Darling (Ripon) R. G.
Boon (Ripon) C.
Bunge (Beloit) L. G.
Blachurn (Lawrence) R. T.
Ward (Ripon) L. E.
Nelson (Beloit) E. R.
Graham (Lawrence) R. H. B.
Dawson (Beloit) L. H. B.
McLaughlin (Beloit) Q. B.

McLaughlin of Beloit was shifted from his regular berth at quarter to a halfback's berth, while Kotal, Lawrence, receives the pilot's job. On the second eleven there was a choice between Boon of Ripon and Bunge of Beloit for center, but the superior passing ability of Boon gave him preference. Bunge was shifted to guard.

OSHKOSH OFFERS SCRAP TONIGHT

Appleton is expected to be well represented Friday night at the boxing show in Oshkosh when J. J. Mason and Tony Lukes mix for ten rounds on a 30 round card. The show will start at 8:30.

Joe Lawson made himself a favorite with Fox River valley fight bugs by his performance with Jack Zalze recently. His willingness to mix gives Lukes something to worry about although Lukes has met some big boys and likes to exchange blows himself.

Jack Lang of Oshkosh and Eddie Mozart of St. Paul will argue in the semi-finals, scheduled to go eight rounds unless Mozart decides to repeat the trick he pulled on Buzze of Appleton in his last fight in the Sawdust City.

Three other fights of four rounds each will make something short and snappy in prelims. The actors in these scraps will be Jack Murray vs. Billie Warner; Battling Herb vs. Phil Stowe; Jack Collins vs. Earl Westphal.

YE FISHING AND HUNTING COLUMN

By M. J. V. Fose

TO WIVES AND SWEETHEARTS
Christmas, the go-between fishing seasons, the time of the year when the hunter of fishermen wishes that his wife or sweetheart would give him that rod or that reel, gun or some other article that goes to fill his little kit, which he so closely guards and prizes. Why not make his present one that he "longed for" instead of handing him something which he will never use. Dig down in his thoughts and bring out his desires and then base your buying accordingly and undoubtedly you'll give him something that he desires and will appreciate it throughout the year.

Many wives and sweethearts ask: "How can I obtain the desired information what Jack, Jim or whatever his name may be, desires?"

My answer to the above question is: "Find out what his hobby is and then get him to talk about it. He will soon let loose enough information and by working the little 'gray' matter you can easily piece together what he is longing for."

He may have an old reel, rod, gun or tackle box that needs renewing. His rod may be pretty old and need fixing up. He may tell you that he is "somebody" going to purchase a "real" rod, gun or some other equipment. That's your cue. Right here you have a tip on what he desires.

All in all when you are buying Christmas presents, base your buying on your little "tip" as obtained above and you'll surely purchase something useful, something he will appreciate or something that he needs in his tackle box or hunting outfit.

YANKS TAKE 3 IN LUTHERAN LEAGUE

The White Sox bowling team failed to perform as expected when they lost three straight by a big margin to the Yanks in the First English Lutheran Brotherhood league Thursday night on the Eagle alleys. Orson Krausz was high man for the Yanks with 435 his brother bowlers with the exception of Kassner were close on his heels. Radtke was the star for the White Sox.

The Tigers got a good start by taking the first game from the Browns but failed to muster sufficient pins to win the next two. Charles Huseman not only led the Browns to victory but was the high man of the evening with 551 pins.

BELOIT WILL PLAY NORTHWESTERN AGAIN

Beloit—Beloit college will play Northwestern university in football on the Evanston field again next fall. Coach Mills having arranged for the game at the Big Ten meeting in Chicago, Oct. 6 is the date set.

Beloit probably will arrange a game previous to this, as was done this year. Prospects for next year are good at the college, and Mills expects to make a better showing than this. A year ago—the first year Beloit met Northwestern—Beloit triumphed 6 to 0.

APPLETONIANS TO SEE MARINETTE. SHEBOYGAN PLAY

Dope Favors Twin City Aggregation To Beat Chair
City

Approximately a hundred Appleton football fans are expecting to journey to Green Bay Saturday to witness the "state championship" contest between Marinette and Sheboygan high school elevens.

Advance dope favors Marinette. Fans who watched Marinette and Appleton play here this fall, believe the team much stronger than Sheboygan. Comparative scores also favor Marinette. The husky northerners totaled 312 points to their opponent's 58, including the game played with Scott high school in Ohio state. Sheboygan totaled 222 points and permitted its opponents to get 19. Juggling around the scores gives Marinette a lead of about 51 points. Sheboygan, it is said, has improved greatly and if reports from the Chair city are to be believed, the eleven is on par with Marinette.

Following are the records of each of the schools:

MARINETTE	W.	L.

Altrock 'Acts Funny,' Pinched By Cop As 'Nut'

Detroit, Mich.—Nick Altrock, greatest baseball comedian of all time, is altogether too funny for the local police. He baffles them. Recently he was doing a few of his antics in a local hotel lobby when a policeman entered, by placing one flat foot before the other repeatedly.

He watched Nick for a few minutes and then arrested him on the rather light charge of insanity. He thought it was an affliction, not a gift.

At the station house the policeman, as dumb as Nick is silly was busy proving Nick a nut when twenty prominent sporting authorities came in with from 10 to 1,000 alibis.

The officer, one of those ponderous gendarmes who laugh only at their own stuff, said Nick "acted funny."

Nick was released.

DRY U. S. IS AFFECTING EUROPE'S WINE-MAKING

Rome—Prohibition laws in America continue to have their effect on the production of wine in Europe, especially in Italy and Spain, the most important wine growing countries on the Continent.

According to the International Institute of Agriculture, the 1922 vintage in Italy is estimated at 725,000,000 gallons, or about 18 per cent below the average of the previous five years. In Spain the yield of wine is expected this year to be 475,000,000 gallons, or eight per cent below the last five years.

Carpentier Easy Mark, Declares Battling Siki

Public Imposed Upon—Had No
Business In Ring With Dempsey, Says Negro Scrapper

By Associated Press
Paris—In a letter addressed to the French press, Battling Siki, the Senegales fighter, on Thursday reiterated the charges that the fight between Siki and Georges Carpentier, which was won by the Negro, had been "fixed."

"The match was fixed," says Siki's letter, "and I could not avoid it until I got into the ring. But now I have been deprived of my title, and I will push matters before the courts. I never received the amount of money I was entitled to from the stakes."

"But I am merely a plain fighter; don't ask me to be a lawyer. From now on I will have nothing further to say. I must refer you to my lawyer, M. Delmont, and to Deputy Diagne."

The French boxing federation has decided to make a most complete investigation of the arrangements preceding the Siki-Carpentier fight. It has named a subcommittee which has been invested with unlimited powers for the collection of evidence and taking testimony. Franz Reichel, secretary of the Olympic committee, has been appointed secretary of the subcommittee, which will meet for the first time on Friday. It is expected to have the report ready prior to the expiration of the period of delay granted Deputy Diagne to produce his evidence of unfair tactics in arranging the bout.

Although Siki has declared he would talk no more, except through his attorney, and Senator Diagne, nevertheless when seen Thursday evening he said:

"Carpentier was one of the easiest marks I had met in my career. He never had any business in the same ring with Jack Dempsey. The American public has been imposed on the same as has the French public, as there surely are ten heavyweights in America who can knock Georges for a 'goal.' Marcel Nilles is a much tougher man than Carpentier. Georges knows very well he is taking no chances in challenging me for a return match, for I am disqualified now and can not fight for months."

He added that he was not fighting for money, but for the honor of the French public.

By Associated Press
Rome—The priceless picture of the Virgin and Child by Fra Angelico, signed and dated 1443, has been stolen from the Oratory of the St. Sebastian annex of the Church of St. Felix at Florence. The discovery of the loss was made when the church was opened in the morning, and all efforts to trace the thieves, or discover how the theft was effected, have been unsuccessful.
The picture, which has never left its position since the erection of the church in 1506, was one of the most valuable art treasures of Florence.

"The Coffee is Excellent"

An original "live-flame" roasting process seals all the flavor in the bean. An air-tight metal container maintains the original flavor and freshness of the coffee, so that all the exquisite full flavor goes into your cup.

Thomas J. Webb Coffee may be had ground or in the bean. The ground is especially recommended, because of uniformity in just the right size, and all the chaff is removed.

THE COFFEE OF UNUSUAL GOODNESS

A comment often heard at the Palmer House of Chicago, famed throughout the nation for its service and the delicious dishes on its menu. To maintain the high standard set years ago, the greatest care is used in selecting the best in food, for it is here the most discriminating dine and it is they who say "the coffee is excellent."

And it is Thomas J. Webb Coffee, of course.

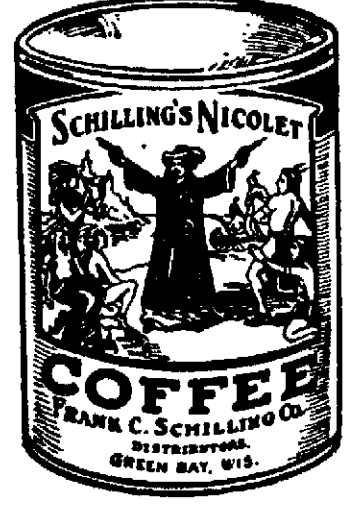

You may have this same good coffee in your home — just get it from your grocer. You pay no more for it than for ordinary coffee. In fact, it is an economical coffee, for you get more cups to the pound. Try it!

Triumphs of M. Jonquille

by MELVILLE DAVISSON POST
© 1922 NEA Service, Inc.

"It is the only capital of pleasure where the heart is free but the eye is not. The flame emerges from the heart. Paris is disturbed, and when it reduces to ashes an ancient house on the Faubourg St. Germain, some explanation must be given."

He paused again. He had now gotten the cigaret lit. And he sat down.

"Madame has correctly expressed it. I am an old acquaintance, and I am more than that. I am an old acquaintance who is very much interested to get Madame's explanation before the authorities in Paris. As early as I can manage it. The night after the fire seemed to be unwise. Even I had very considerable difficulties to find her."

The American spoke abruptly. "You seem very much interested in 'Casque d'Or'?"

Jonquille's voice was in a sort of drawl. "Casque d'Or?" he said. The expression is extremely happy. Madame's golden head used to be the wonder of Paris when she came up with it like a Minerva through the fluid floor of Paris. Ah yes, I am very interested—I have been a very interested, as an old, a very old acquaintance. And I am interested again, more perhaps than Monsieur can imagine."

The American spoke again abruptly.

"You seem to know all about 'Casque d'Or'?"

Again Monsieur Jonquille drew a golden head to the blue paper, carefully outlined on her hand between the thumb and the forefinger, every detail of Madame's head being of interest to me—has been a very old acquaintance to me. And now I am concerned about the explanation for this fire."

CHAPTER II

The American broke in. "He was no longer restrained. I don't see what you've got to do with it," he said.

Monsieur Jonquille did not at once reply. He looked at his cigaret as though it were somewhat unsatisfactory, puffed it a moment until the tip glowed, then he tossed it over the edge of the terrace into the bushes.

Almost immediately the bushes parted and two persons came up onto the terrace. They were dressed in a rather nonchalant, foreign manner. There paid no attention to either Monsieur Jonquille or the American. They addressed themselves with apologetic diffidence to the woman in the chair.

They explained that a parrot belonging to the Princess Kitzendorf, who occupied the great villa above had escaped and was concealed somewhere in the thick brush of Madame's garden. Would they be permitted to search for it?

The woman in the chair moved her head slowly in assent. Then she dismissed them with a gesture. They went off the terrace and moved toward the rear of the villa in their search and the woman in the chair addressed the American.

"You must believe," she said, "that Monsieur Jonquille is an old acquaintance and that this explanation is not to be denied him. Neither are you to be denied it. You came here for it precisely as he has come to."

You have followed me here, trailing out my flight as he has followed. The two of you arrived nearly on the moment, and I shall be pleased to include the two of you in my explanation. You were demanding it as Monsieur Jonquille asked with some heat, if I correctly remember."

The American replied in his abrupt manner.

"I don't understand this thing," he said. "But I do want to know how this house happened to burn while I was absent. You are the only person who had a key to it, and you must have burned it or you would not have."

"I have been attached to Monsieur Dillard," she said. "There was a fortune before us an immense, an incredible fortune. The anticipation of a boundless me to him and so the burning of this house must have been an accident. The burn of a fortune is the only influence that does not loosen as one advances into the world where presently every emotion is a failure. Therefore, Monsieur Dillard had a right to feel that he could trust me, since my interest in this fortune was identical with his own."

She paused and seemed to address Monsieur Jonquille directly.

"You will be concerned, Monsieur, about the mystery of this fortune. It was no dream and depended upon no uncertain hazard of chance. Monsieur Dillard is an artist—an artist with a genius for turning art to a practical use. There have been great artists that Monsieur Dillard in production but not in methods by which art can be made to serve a practical purpose, that is to say, can be made to produce a fortune. It is the life work of Monsieur Dillard not to produce art, but to bring the artist's skill to the mastery of art in his practical purposes. And in this department he has no support in any country. The house in the Faubourg St. Germain was, in fact, a masterpiece. I was at the time of its destruction by the fire, and I saw with my own eyes the beautiful work of art of an incredible art."

She did not move the position of her body in the chair. But she again vaguely touched her fingers with the handkerchief in her fingers, a bit of blue tissue.

Monsieur Jonquille said, "There have been in the world three men who are supreme in what perhaps the highest of all artistic productions. I shall name them to you, Monsieur Jonquille, for the American, Monsieur Helton of Paris and Wagnerism of Munich."

She moved a little in the chair. Then she went on.

"The masterpiece of producing a masterpiece in oil or in water color is that one copy of the master piece exists and if by an unfortunate it is destroyed even adequate evidence of its beauty is disappeared forever. This is the unfortunate feature attached to the work of all the great masters."

But it is a masterpiece that does not attend the etchings of Monsieur Whistler, Monsieur Helton and Herr Wagnerism. The beautiful face of the etchings of Monsieur Helton can be reproduced in any number. That beauty does not depend upon the property of a single picture."

It once seemed to advance, but not with the stimulus of an emotion.

It is not commonly known, she said, that an extreme skill is required to etch in the prints all the beauty of these etchings. The prints are commonly made by persons having only the usual workman's skill."

But it was always realized by the masters of this art that the extreme and delicate beauties of their etchings could be produced only by an adequate skill. It is a skill almost equal to that of a painter in the printing of the picture. The skill constitutes the particular genius of Monsieur Dillard—a skill which he has striven to perfect, and which he has finally brought to the highest excellence."

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

RECIPES

Woman Wins Success As Hotel Keeper

BY MARIAN HALE
Stamford, N. Y.—Woman the home maker, woman the hotel keeper. It's but a step from one to the other.

In spite of which comparatively few women take upon themselves the business of feeding and looking after the welfare of the traveling public.

Mrs. Grace Hiscox is one of the exceptions.

"When, 18 years ago, I found myself saddled with a hotel," she relates, "my first thought was that I must put it on a paying basis so that, in a year or so, I could sell it at a profitable figure."

HAVE TO BE FED
"With that end in view I went nosing about the kitchen. People have to be fed, I told myself, so I'll feed them with the same care that I would guests in my own home."

"Accordingly I made it a point to spend a part of every meal hour in the kitchen."
"Then I strained every effort to make my hotel 'feel' homelike. I made it a point to have fresh flowers from my own garden in the room of a new guest. Arrivals were called upon very shortly to assure them that I myself would do everything for their comfort, and to find out discreetly, their personal likes and dislikes."

GETTING THEM TOGETHER
"On cool days I kept a gay wood fire burning in the foyer and when my guests took advantage of that and came down for their rooms I myself would see to it that congenial people were introduced to one another."

"The guest who rushed out to dinner leaving a room untidy returned to find it put in order, the air fresh and the covers of the bed turned neatly back."

"And it paid. It paid so well that after 18 years I am still running it and more fascinated than ever."

"Hotelkeeper? There's nobody in the world better equipped than a woman."

TESTED RECIPES

THREE PUDDING SAUCES
By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Hard Sauce

- 1/2 cup butter
  - 1 cup brown sugar
  - 2 tablespoons cream
  - 1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar and cream well. Add cream a little at a time and beat until the smoothness of ice cream.

Mousseline Sauce

- 1 cup powdered sugar
  - Yolk 4 eggs
  - Few grains salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- Beat egg yolks until thick, add sugar gradually and continue beating. Cook over hot water until thick, remove, and beat until cold. Fold in cream, add salt and vanilla.

Liquid Sauce

- 1 cup brown sugar
  - 1/3 cup water
  - 1 tablespoon corn starch
  - 1/4 cup cold water
  - 1/2 cup butter
  - Few grains salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- Boil sugar and water together five minutes. Mix cornstarch with the one-fourth cup cold water, add sugar and simmer thirty minutes. Add butter, salt and vanilla, and serve as soon as butter is melted.

NOTE If one does not have cream, the whites of the eggs, beaten until they are stiff may be added. It would be a good sauce, but not "Mousseline," as that name implies cream.

CHICKEN STEW-DUMPLINGS

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH

- 1 young fowl, weighing 3 1/2 to 4 lbs
  - 2 medium-sized onions
  - 1/2 tablespoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
  - 1/2 cup celery cut in small pieces
  - 1 1/2 cup flour
  - 2 quarts water (boiling)
  - 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- Singe, wash, and cut in pieces for serving the fowl. Wash and clean the liver, heart and gizzard. Add salt and pepper to flour and roll the pieces of chicken in it. Place in a kettle with the water, onions thinly sliced, and celery.

Cover and cook slowly until the chicken comes easily from the bone. The liquid will be reduced about one-half, but if it is cooked away more than that amount, add water. Season to taste, add dumplings and cook 15 minutes.

Remove dumplings to platter, pour the liquid and chicken in center and sprinkle over all the parsley.

FRUIT CARROT PUDDING

- Cream 1 cup sweet, add 2-3 cups stale bread crumbs and 1 cup grated raw carrot. Beat the yolks of 4 eggs until very light, and add gradually, while beating constantly: 1 1/3 cups brown sugar. Combine mixtures and add grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 tablespoon strong vinegar. Mix 1 cup raisins, seeded and cut in pieces, and 1/2 cup currants, then dredge with 1 1/2 cup flour mixed and sifted with 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon cardamom, 1/4 teaspoon clove. Add to other mixture, then add whites 4 eggs beaten until stiff. Turn into a buttered mold decorated with raisins and citron. Cover and steam 3 1/2 hours.

TILT OVER BRITISH DIVORCE

DUKE AND DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH

By MILTON BRONNER

London—Shall the church or state rule in England in the matter of divorce?

The Anglican Church which has official status here forbids the remarriage of divorced persons.

Both civil and church heads today are demanding a showdown on the question and the Duke of Marlborough, former husband of Consuelo Vanderbilt, is the center of the unique tilt.

It all started when Consuelo divorced Marlborough. Marlborough then married Mrs. Gladys Deacon, an American.

The Bishop of Oxford immediately declared Marlborough could not be a communicant of the Church of England and barred him from attending the Oxford Diocesan conference of which Marlborough is a member by hereditary right.

Marlborough though he cared little about the right of attending the conference was annoyed when he was barred. He is now demanding that the church recognize him as a communicant.

Marlborough and his friends maintain that the Church of England which is supported by the state, is refusing to recognize laws passed by the state and especially laws passed by Parliament in the upper house of which bishops of the Established Church sit as hereditary legislators.

Gay Hosiery No Longer Is In Big Demand

Fantastic hosiery has had its day. The loud line designs in hose of chiffon thickness, the porous texture of stockings of almost invisible net fancy clocks and beaded designs for evening wear have all given way in favor of heavy, severely plain black silk.

CLOCKS GO

Maybe the long skirts have done it or maybe women have only tired of so much "fanciness" and decoration on their stockings. But the edict has gone forth that stockings must match the shoes without even the note of contrast so popular during the early fall of combining black and gray. The very newest ones have no embroidery, clock or seam. It took close observation to determine that women are eagerly following the new style because it is only a casual that the stockings ankles kick out into view under the hem of long skirts.

SPORT SOCKS BRIGHT

Sport clothes permit, of course, a certain gay sportiveness in color and design. Here, indeed, can step into almost any kind of hose she chooses. A certain tone of golden rust shades worn with matching suede oxfords is highly favorable. Above a somber black sport oxford a display of from seven to nine inches of gray plaid hose is permissible, especially if the skirt, hat or sweater is plaid.

For street and town wear there is no leeway. With the attention of knitters taken off the novelty of design in hosiery they are concentrating on the fit. No longer will there be the difficulty of twisting seams that have been for ever sliding off at a tangent. It has been found, that with stockings carefully fitted in the knitting and adjusted snugly by virtue of their own curve there is no need for the ugly off misplaced seam.

PERFUME

The business woman or the girl who affects mannish togs should select the same scents her brother uses. Lavender, violet, verbena, lemon or eau de cologne.

DRESS HINTS

SOFA PILLOWS

Very attractive sofa pillows are made of black taffeta with Chinese embroideries or bits of old hand woven fabrics, appliqued or in geometrical patterns.

OVERBLOUSE

The overblouse, with its tight hip band, is growing steadily in favor. While velvet is favored for the moment, certain of the shops are anticipating spring by showing very smart blouses in white crepe de chine and the better qualities of china silk. The overblouse, it is asserted will be the accepted thing for sports wear.

BALKAN BLOUSE

A Balkan blouse of green jersey is embroidered in gray wool and worn with a skirt of heavy gray material.

SUEDE CAPE

A smart cape which reaches to the hem of a very long skirt is made of suede, trimmed about the collar with monkey fur.

FOR STREET WEAR

A street costume for the youthful figure has a short hip length coat of brown matelasse over a brown velvet skirt. The collar is of brown rabbit fur which develops into revers of henna colored crepe de chine, the longer of which ends with a sash girdle knotted at one side of the jacket.

MORE POWER TO BOARD

"In a previous address to the congress, I called your attention to the insufficiency of power to enforce the decisions of the Railroad Labor board. Carriers have ignored its decisions on the one hand, while we have challenged its decisions by a strike on the other hand.

"The labor board itself, is not so constituted as best to serve the public interest. With six partisan members on a board of nine, three partisans nominated by the employees and three by the railway managers, it is inevitable that the partisan viewpoint is maintained throughout hearings and in decisions rendered. I am well acquainted with the functions of this tribunal could be much better carried on here in Washington. Even were it to be continued as a separate tribunal there ought to be contact with the Interstate Commerce commission.

"The substitution of a labor division in the interstate commerce commission made up from its members to hear and decide disputes relating to wages and working conditions which have failed of adjustment by proper committees created by the railways and their employees offers a more effective plan. This suggested substitution will involve a necessary increase in the membership of the commission probably four, to constitute the labor division. If the suggestion appeals to congress, it will be well to specify that the labor division shall be constituted of representatives of the four rate making territories, thereby assuring a tribunal conversant with the conditions which obtain in the different rate making sections of the country. I wish I could bring to you the precise recommendation for the prevention of strikes which threaten the welfare of the people and menace public safety. It is an important civilization and an inadequate government which lacks the genius and courage to stand against such a menace to public welfare as we experienced last summer.

"Public interest demands that ample power shall be conferred upon the labor tribunal, whether it is the present board or the suggested substitute, to require its rulings to be accepted by both parties to a disputed question.

"Let there be no confusion about the purpose of suggested conferment of the power to make the decisions effective. There can be no denial of constitutional rights to either railway workers or railway managers.

"No man can be denied his right to labor when and how he chooses, or to leave labor when he so elects, but the government assumes to safeguard his interests while employed in any essential public service the security of society itself demands his retirement from the service shall not be so timed and related as to affect the destruction of that service.

TALKS ABOUT TARIFF

"During its longer session the present congress enacted a new tariff law. The protection of the American standards of living demanded the insurance it provides against the distorted conditions of world commerce. No one contemplates commercial aloofness nor any other aloofness contradictory to the best American traditions or loftiest human purposes. War made us a creditor nation. We did not seek an excess possession of the world's gold, and we have neither desire to profit unduly by its possession nor permanently retain it.

"While I have everlasting faith in our republic it would be folly, indeed, to blind ourselves to our problems at home. Abusing the hospitality of our shores are the advocates of revolution, finding their deluded followers among those who take on the habits of an American without not knowing American soul. There is the recrudescence of hyphenated Americanism which we thought to have been stamped out when we committed the nation, life and soul to the World War.

"There is a call to make the alien respect our institutions while he accepts our hospitality. Let men who are rendering the moral fiber of the republic through easy contempt for the prohibition law, because they think it restricts their personal liberty, remember that they set the example and breed a contempt for law which will ultimately destroy the republic.

HITS LAW VIOLATORS

"Constitutional prohibition has been adopted by the nation. It is the supreme law of the land. In plain speaking there are conditions relating to its enforcement which savor of nationwide scandal. It is the most demoralizing factor in our public life.

"Most of our people assumed that the adoption of the eighteenth amendment meant the elimination of the question from our politics. On the contrary it has been so intensified as an issue that many voters are disposed to make all political decisions with reference to this single question. It is distracting the public mind and prejudicing the judgment of the electorate.

"The day is unlikely to come when the eighteenth amendment will be repealed. The fact may as well be recognized, and our course adapted accordingly. If the statutory provisions for its enforcement are contrary to deliberate public opinion, which I do not believe the rigorous and literal enforcement will concentrate public attention on any equisite modification. Such a course conforms with the law and saves the humiliation of the government the humiliation of our people before the world and challenges the destructive forces engaged in widespread violation, official corruption and individual demoralization.

"The eighteenth amendment involves the concurrent authority of state and federal governments for the enforcement of the policy it defines. A certain lack of definiteness, through division of responsibility is thus introduced. In order to bring about a full understanding of duties and responsibilities as thus distributed, I propose to invite the governors of the states at an early opportunity, to a conference with the federal executive authority. Out of the full and free considerations which will thus be possible it is confidently believed, will emerge a more adequate comprehension of the whole problem and definite policies of national and state cooperation in administering the laws.

"There are pending bills for the registration of the alien who has come to our shores. I wish the passage of such an act might be expedited. Before enlarging the immigration quota, we had better provide registration for aliens, those now here or continual pressing for admission and establish our examination boards abroad, to make sure of desirables only.

"Our program of admission and treatment of immigrants is very intimately related to the educational policy of the republic. I believe in the cooperation of national authority to stimulate, encourage and broaden the work of the local authorities. But it is the special obligation of the federal government to devise means and effectively assist in the education of the new comers from foreign lands so that the level of American education may be made the highest that is humanly possible.

"Closely related to this problem of education is the abolition of child labor. Twice congress has attempted the correction of the evils incident to child employment. The decision of the Supreme court has put this problem outside the proper domain of federal regulation until the constitution is so amended as to give congress in dubitable authority. I recommend the submission of such an amendment.

"We have two schools of thought relating to amendment of the constitution. One need not be committed to the belief that the amendment is weak, the fundamental law or that excessive amendment is essential to meet every ephemeral whim. We ought to amend to meet the demands of the people when sanctioned by deliberate public opinion.

"One year ago I suggested the submission of an amendment so that we may lawfully restrict the issue of tax exempt securities and I renew that recommendation now. Tax exempt securities are drying up the sources of federal taxation and they are encouraging unproductive and extravagant expenditures by states and municipalities.

"Reclamation and irrigation projects, where waste land may be made available for settlement and productivity are worthy of your favorable consideration.

"The fuel problem is under study now by a very capable fact finding commission and attempt to deal with the coal problem of such deep concern to the entire nation must await the report of the commission.

"The difference between production costs and prices which consumers pay concerns every citizen of the republic. It contributes very largely to the unrest in agriculture and must stand sponsor for much against which we inveigh in that familiar term—the high cost of living.

"No one doubts the excess is traceable to the levy of the middleman, but it would be unfair to charge him with all responsibility before we appraise what is exacted of him by our modern complex life. We have attacked the problem on one side by the promotion of cooperative marketing and we might well inquire into the benefits of cooperative buying. Admittedly the consumer is much to blame himself because of his prodigious expenditure, his exaction of service, but the government might well serve to point the way of narrowing the spread of price, especially between the production of food and its consumption.

"A super-power survey of the eastern industrial region has recently been completed, looking to unification of steam, water and electricity powers and to a unified scheme of power distribution.

"The survey proved that vast economies in tonnage movement of freights and in the efficiency of the railroads, would be effected if the super power program were adopted.

"The proposed survey of a plan to draft all the resources of the republic, human and material, for national defense, may well have your approval. I commend such a program in case of future war, in the inaugural address of March 4, 1921 and every experience in the adjustment and liquidation of war claims and the settlement of war obligations persuades me we ought to be prepared for such universal call to armed defense.

"I bring you no apprehension of war. The world is abhorrent of it and our own relations are not only free from every threatening cloud but we have contributed our larger influence toward making armed conflict less likely.

"Those who assume that we played our part in the World war and later took ourselves aloof and avaricious, mindful of world obligations, give scant credit to the helpful part we assume in international relationships.

"Whether all nations signatory ratify all the treaties growing out of the Washington conference on limitation of armament or some withhold approval, the underlying policy of limiting naval armament has the sanction of the larger naval powers and naval competition is suspended. Of course, unanimous ratification is much to be desired.

"Treaties of armed alliance can have no likelihood of American sanction but we believe in respecting the rights of nations in the value of conference and consultation, in the effectiveness of leaders of nations looking each other in the face before resorting to the arbitrament of arms.

"Every obligation consonant with American ideals and sanctioned under our form of government is willingly met. When we cannot support we do not demand. Our constitutional limitations do not forbid the exercise of a moral influence, the measure of which is not less than the high purposes we have sought to serve.

"After all there is less difference about the part this great republic shall play in furthering peace and advancing humanity than in the manner of playing it. We ask no one to assume responsibility for us, we assume no responsibility for others must bear for themselves, unless nationality is hopelessly swallowed up in internationalism.

Wisconsin Voted for Continued Company Oper- ation of Public Utilities and for State Regulation

Partly because they dread any increase of taxes, and partly, we like to believe, because they are fairly satisfied with existing utility rates and services, the people of Wisconsin on Nov. 7, 1922, by a vote of 212,857 to 103,352, defeated a constitutional amendment permitting cities to bond themselves an extra five per cent to buy utility properties. The amendment was beaten by substantial majorities in Milwaukee city and county and throughout the state generally. On the same day the same voters gave large majorities to Senator La Follette and his progressive group who established and have steadily strengthened state regulation of public utilities. So far as we know, Wisconsin utility companies offered no opposition to the amendment.

The people's mandate in favor of company ownership and state regulation will encourage Wisconsin investors to supply the millions of dollars of new capital needed every year to finance the growth of Wisconsin utilities. It has quickened the sale of Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co. 7% cumulative preferred shares direct to home investors at $100 each. Some folks who had no doubt of the safety of the shares or of their dividends, held off because they believed public ownership was coming soon. They would have been absolutely safe, in any event, since each of these preferred shares has a first claim on more than $200 worth of income-producing property, over and above all debts. With the new guaranty of the permanency of the business under careful company management, many of these ultra conservative investors are now buying these shares.

Whether you pay all cash, or buy them on monthly payments of $5 or more per share, you get 7% on every dollar invested from the day you put it into this business. And in our judgment there is no safer income investment, paying an equal rate, now on the market. Mail orders filled promptly by registered mail.

ON THE SCREEN

"THE CUP OF LIFE"

Since Marco Polo first dared the hidden dangers of uncharted oceans to journey his way from Europe to the mysterious shores of India and the Orient, the colorful kingdoms and empires lying "somewhere east of Suez" have lured the adventurer with the lure of beauty, romance and glamour.

Singapore, the trade center of the Orient, a part of ancient traditions and modern business, where today's shoulders with yesterday, is the alluring background of Thomas H. Ince's latest special production for the Associated Producers, "The Cup of Life," which is announced as the feature of the Elite Theatre program beginning today for a two day engagement.

The story is a tremendous drama of a father's love for his son and of the unjustified vengeance of a powerful Chinese merchant prince. Defiantly combined with a delicate love story, and scenes of stirring action, are revealed the fundamental differences that will forever separate the Orient from the Occident—the dividing line of races.

The cosmopolitan atmosphere of Singapore has been exploited to the fullest advantage in attaining powerful and effective contrast, and in revealing the tremendous dramatic situations which feature the production.

The leading roles are assumed by an all-star cast of exceptional merit. Herbert Ross, who appears as "Rully Brand," the type of characterization for which he has become justly famous, Madge Bellamy, Tully Marshall, and Niles Welch are seen in parts no less important. Monte Collins and May Wallace complete the cast.

"The Cup of Life" has been produced in typical Thomas H. Ince fashion, and no effort has been spared to make it one of the artistic and dramatic triumphs of the season.

EATS HEARTY AGAIN, AND FEELS FINE

"Tanlac put an end to all my troubles, and I only wish I could find words to praise it all it deserves," declared Harry E. Summerton, 215 4th street, Racine, Wis., when he was in Milwaukee on business recently.

"Before I took Tanlac," said Mr. Summerton, "my kidneys were all out of order and the pain in my back was so awful that when I would bend over I thought my back would break. These attacks hit me so hard and sudden sometimes that I would have little all played out for my work. I also had terrible dizzy spells, when I'd nearly fall in my tracks, and my nerves were simply on edge. My appetite went back on me and I was scarcely eating enough to keep going. Even that soured on my stomach, puffed me up with gas and I suffered a great deal from heartburn."

"Just when I needed help the most I got Tanlac, and four bottles have put me in tip-top shape. I have gained considerable weight, eat heartily, my food agrees with me perfectly, and I could do the biggest day's work without tiring. Tanlac certainly is a great medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.
